LBJ Names New Chief Tax Collector

Red Backing Ends Contest On 21st Ballot

Pro-West Foreign Minister Selected To Succeed Segni

ROME (UPI) — Pro-Western Foreign Minister Giuseppe Saragat, 66, was elected Italy's first Socialist president Monday with the backing of the Italian Communist party.

The Parliament meeting in joint session had failed in 20 previous ballots over a period of 13 days to elect a successor to Antonio Segni who resigned after suffering a stroke.

But Monday the Communists announced they were swinging behind their one-time bitter enemy and Saragat won by a landslide on the 21st ballot — an all-time record for a Eruopean presidential election.

Saragat Gets 646 Votes

The small Monarchist party announced in advance it would abstain in protest against what it called "the collusion between the Christian Democrats and the Communists for the arrival at the head of the state of a Marxist."

Saragat received 646 votes, 164 more than the 482 majority required in the 936-man joint session. Some Christian Democrats refused to back him, casting blank ballots. When his total topped the 482 mark his backers rose to applaud.

The official announcement of Saragat's election brought another standing ovation from his backers, but there were boos and catcalls from the right. The neo-Fascists and Monarchists on one side and the Communists on the other hurled insults across the floor at each other.

Swearing In Tuesday

Saragat will be sworn in before a joint session at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Unlike the American president, the Italian president is largely a ceremonial post with power resting with the premier. Although his job theoretically is non-political, it is important because he is the man who selects a candidate for premier.

Saragat was a member of the Italian Socialist party until January, 1947, when he broke away to form the Social Democrats in protest against Socialist ties with the Communists.

His Social Democratic party has been in the various left-of-center coalitions and he had served as vice premier twice.

Viet Civilian Leaders Ask Full Authority

Failure Of Secret Talks With Military Chiefs Indicated

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The leaders of South Viet Nam's truncated civilian government publicly called on the armed forces today to hand back the powers that would make it whole again.

Chief of State Phan Khac Suu and Premier Tran Van Huong issued a communique that was widely interpreted here as indicating failure in secret negotiations on the crisis set off by the military purge Dec. 20 of the High National Council.

"For the past week we have made strenuous efforts to find a way to conciliate divergent views, to preserve the solidarity binding the government, the armed forces and the people while saving full civilian government to avoid disappointing the people's expectations," they said.

"We hope that, thanks to the warm support of the entire population and to the good will of the armed forces council, we will find a fitting solution."

But there appeared to be no breakthrough whatever.

And in Washington, which holds a stable civilian government is essential to successful prosecution of the U.S.-backed war against the Viet Cong, officials conceded that a program of new U.S. assistance to South Viet Nam is marking time because of the political confusion.

Authoritative sources there said, however, the offer of expanded aid — estimated at about $600 million — still stands for transfer when the government is in a position to use it efficiently.

They denied it had been canceled as a means of punishing South Viet Nam's military leaders for purging the council, which was a provisional legislature, and reasserting a right to intervene in governmental affairs.

Viets Win Big Battle

SOC TRANG, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Heavily outnumbered government rangers captured the headquarters of a Communist Viet Cong general and seized a record cache of enemy arms in a two-day battle ending early Monday. At least 85 Communists were killed and eight captured.

U.S. military advisers hailed the victory as one of the greatest of the Viet Nam war.

The battle near this provincial capital 86 miles southwest of Saigon enveloped what was believed to be the Viet Cong zone headquarters for all of western Viet Nam. But it appeared that wily old Communist Gen. Dong Van Cong escaped.

One senior American military adviser said the raid netted "the greatest haul of heavy weapons ever captured" from the Viet Cong.

Government losses were reported as 19 killed and 49 wounded. Eight American servicemen also were wounded when guerrillas scored hits on half a dozen U.S. Army helicopters, one of which crashed, burned and finally exploded in the middle of the battlefield. Only two required hospital treatment, and they were reported in good condition.

Agreement Due On Adjourning U.N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Agreement was reported near Monday on adjourning the U.N. General Assembly until Jan. 11 and putting off any U.S.-Soviet showdown over voting rights stemming from Soviet refusal to pay peacekeeping assessments.

Diplomatic sources said the way appeared open for filling vacancies on the Security Council and handling other necessary yearend business under the no-vote truce which has been in effect since the assembly opened Dec. 1.

The chief obstacle to a recess had been a deadlock between Mali and Jordan over a Security Council seat to be vacated by Morocco next Friday. The council, chief peacekeeping organ of the United Nations, would be unable to function without its full 11-nation membership.

Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, the assembly president, was reported to have persuaded Mali and Jordan to accept the results of an informal poll of the assembly's 115 members. The loser would withdraw and permit the winner to be elected by acclamation.

The way appeared open for the assembly to meet Tuesday, approve yearend business and then adjourn while further attempts are made to resolve the basic dispute over voting rights.

Meeting with Quaison-Sackey on Monday were U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

Secretary-General U Thant returned to his U.N. headquarters office for the first time since he entered a hospital Dec. 4 to undergo treatment for a peptic ulcer.

Diplomatic sources said Thant may make an appeal in the assembly Tuesday for voluntary contributions to ease the organization's financial plight. But no progress was made in resolving basic issues in the dispute over refusal of the Soviet Union and other debtor nations to pay the long overdue peacekeeping assessments.

Wintry Storms Batter Europe

LONDON (AP) — The first severe cold storm of winter covered Europe, snarling transportation, whipping up angry seas and causing breakdowns in electric and gas systems Monday.

The icy storm ranged southward to the Mediterranean, blasting Italy with snow and rain for the fourth straight day.

Freezing weather was blamed for five deaths in Britain, five in France and others throughout Europe. In addition, wintry conditions contributed to at least some of the mounting highway deaths — including 108 in Britain, 91 in France, 16 in Sweden and 8 in Switzerland.

Gales on the English Channel delayed ferries up to 10 hours, while more than 1,000 passengers returning to London from the Continent waited for a letup.

Seven-foot snowdrifts piled up in Dorset, in southwestern England.

Snow Traps 500 Cut Off By Flood

Dodge Widow, Ex-Cop To Wed

Relief Effort In California Area Stalled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Heavy snow stalled flood relief operations in California's remote Siskiyou Mountains region where 500 persons, isolated for a week, are running short of food.

Elsewhere, the massive aid effort to supply and restore flood-ravaged communities in four Western states picked up pace and volume.

Two feet of snow fell overnight in the Siskiyou region on the Oregon border where residents of towns on the Klamath and Salmon rivers have been cut off since last Monday night.

"They're pretty rugged people, but they're beginning to run short of food," sais William Sowle, Civil Defense director at Yreka.

Frank Dryden, deputy director of the Office of Emergency Planning, flew to Arcata in Humboldt County as President Johnson's personal director of disaster relief.

Vast Rebuilding Job

Dryden will direct organizing the federal support for the gigantic reconstruction and repair job required by damage loss to the highways, bridges, and buildings which may reach $1 billion in California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

The OEP announced a preliminary damage estimate of $220 million for 14 Northern California counties designated as a disaster area. Gov. Edmund G. Brown added seven more northern counties to the disaster list Monday.

All of the State of Oregon has been designated a disaster zone. With rivers receding, Gov. Mark Hatfield closed the flood command post in his office. Red Cross shelters shut down as evacuees were moved into motels, hotels, and private homes.

Cleanup work got under way in Washington where the Columbia River's flood flow dropped. The flood threat also appeared ended in Idaho.

Brown Surveys Havoc

Gov. Brown flew from Sacramento to Arcata to consult with Dryden and make a personal helicopter survey of havoc caused by record flooding of the Eel, Mad and Klamath rivers.

With weather clearing in Eureka and Crescent City areas, helicopter pilots whirled back and forth across Humboldt and Del Norte counties in a busy round of relief and rescue flights.

One medical aid flight took off from Willow Creek with a newly born infant. The child died before the craft could reach the hospital at Hoopa, reported Don Telford, Humboldt County Civil Defense information director.

The persisting heavy snowfall in the Sierra Nevada and the Siskiyou Mountains delayed until nearly noon the takeoff of a reinforcing group of 27 Air Force helicopters from Stead Air Force Base near Reno, Nev.

The Air Force group headed for Klamath Falls, Ore., and hoped for a weatner break to fly into Yreka, Calif.

President's Health Rated As Excellent

Johnson Selects Cohen To Be IRS Commissioner

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson picked a new chief tax collector Monday, pored over the federal budget to spend the money that comes in and got a briefing at dusk on the international situation.

All this came shortly after his No. 1 doctor had pronounced the President in excellent health and predicted he'll withstand the strains of the next four years in the White House "in oustanding fashion."

And the physician disclosed, in passing, that Johnson is a bourbon-and-branchwater before dinner man.

Sitting on the front lawn at the LBJ Ranch, Johnson announced to newsmen that he has picked the chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Service, Sheldon S. Cohen, to be the new IRS commissioner.

He said Mitchell Rogovin, assistant to the internal revenue commissioner, will replace Cohen as IRS chief counsel.

Undersecretary Named

He announced, too, that Frederick K. Deming, president of the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis, will become undersecretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs, succeeding Robert V. Roosa who is resigning at the end of the year.

The President also produced three, thick loose-leaf books filled with suggestions on what should go into his State of the Union message and showed them to newsmen.

The suggestions came from 50 government agencies, Johnson said. He presents the message to Congress and the nation Jan. 4.

The sun was dipping down across the Pedernales River while Johnson talked with reporters and just as they were leaving, John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency arrived at the ranch by air to brief Johnson on international affairs.

In a yearend report on Johnson, Rear Adm. George G. Burkley found no fault at all with the condition of the President other than in the matter of weight.

Burkley said Johnson weighs about 205 to 210, and to a question whether he considered this the desirable level, he answered: "Would like to keep it in 200-pound area." This is about 10 pounds over what some other doctors say Johnson should weigh.

Weighs 205 to 210

Two other physicians who examined Johnson recently likewise said the President is in excellent health but agreed that Johnson at 200 was about 10 pounds too heavy.

These physicians were Dr. James W. Cain of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., and Dr. John Willis Hurst, heart specialist and chairman of the department of medicine, Emory University School of Medicine, Atlanta, Ga.

They were interviewed by Associated Press science writer Frank Carey after they had ex-

Hikes In Steel Prices Good Omen To Union

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — National Steel Corp. Monday became the fifth producer to increase galvanized steel products $6 per ton. Other steelmakers were expected to fall in line.

National Steel said the increase in the mill price of carbon and high strength galvanized sheet would be effective at midnight. It raised the cost of galvanized sheet to between $155 and $160 per ton.

When all the producers fall in line, as expected, the industry will have boosted prices on about 12 per cent of total steel production.

The policy of "creeping selectivity" in industry prices began about three months ago. The major increases have been in pipe and galvanized products.

There was no immediate reaction from the administration in Washington.

United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said the developments augured well for the union in its current contract negotiations with the industry.

"The price increases should put the industry in an even better position to meet the urgent needs of steelworkers," McDonald said.

"Even before the price increases were announced, the industry was in an excellent position to meet the needs of its employes as well as reward them for their increased productivity. The productivity rise has caused a decline in the labor cost of producing each ton of steel and contributed to the industry's prosperity."

Four Die In Crash Of AF Cargo Plane

LUKE AIR FORCE BASE, Ariz. (UPI) — A twin-engine Air Force cargo plane carrying four men crashed and burned Monday, and rescue workers said there were no apparent survivors.

The flaming wreckage touched off a series of small fires in the Rainbow Valley about 30 miles southwest of Phoenix, Ariz. But fire fighters using hand extinguishers put out the flames before a major blaze developed.

The wreckage of the C123, which was en route from Luke to the Gila Bend gunnery range, was so hot from the fire that rescuers could not enter the charred fuselage, the Air Force reported.

Gunmen Tie Up Two Priests And Guards, Take Brinks Truck

Amount Of Money Stolen Undetermined

CHICAGO (AP) — Three masked gunmen bound two priests and two guards in the rectory of a suburban Norridge church Monday night, police said, escaping with an undisclosed amount of money from a Brinks, Inc., truck.

It was the second theft of an armored truck near a U.S. church within a week.

Brinks officials at the Divine Savior Roman Catholic Church, scene of the latest holdup, were trying to determine the amount of money taken. The truck apparently had completed its pickups for the day.

Last Monday three masked gunmen bound four priests and escaped with $513,000 from a bank truck in a similar holdup at a Paterson, N.J. church.

Paterson police, however, expressed doubt that the two robberies were related.

Fr. Richard Burke, 31, of the Divine Savior Church quoted a Brinks guard, Robert Johnsten, 38, of Chicago, as saying the pickup was the final one of the day.

Father Burke gave these details of the robbery:

He went into the church rectory looking for Fr. Walter Morris, 58, pastor of the church, and found him sitting in a chair, gagged and bound with surgical tape. One of the three masked men grabbed Father Burke, taped his hands and mouth, and left him on the floor.

The masked men then waited for the Brinks guard to enter the rectory.

When the guard entered the room, one man slugged him and handcuffed him and Father Burke together on the floor.

Two men stayed in the rectory, while a third man went outside and cleaned out the truck. Details were unavailable on how they got into the truck.

The three masked men then fled in the truck.

Beinz Beer, an ambulance driver for the Norridge Fire Department, said he overheard a police call and raced to the church where he found the three men bound.

At a cemetery across, the street from the church, Beer said he found the Brinks driver, Bernard Gendek, 27, handcuffed and lying on the ground. He also had been slugged, Beer said.

A Harwood Heights policeman said the Brinks truck was found in the cemetery.

Father Burke said the holdup men were respectful, but one warned him: "If you don't behave, you know what you're going to get."

Holiday Traffic Death Toll 578, Second Highest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic fatalities over the weekend soared to 578, the second highest total on record for a three-day Christmas holiday.

The near-record toll drew this plea from Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, for driver caution during the approaching New Year's holiday weekend:

"The high fatality rate can be cut sharply if all drivers will leave themselves an 'out' in expectation of an emergency arising."

The toll fell short of the 1955 three-day Christmas record of 609 deaths, but within the 550-650 range estimated in advance by the council.

The total count of Christmas holiday fatalities far surpassed the number of deaths reported in a recent three-day nonholiday period. An Associated Press survey of highway deaths from 6 p.m. Thursday Dec. 10 to midnight Sunday, Dec. 14, showed 396 fatalities.

The National Safety Council has estimated that from 300 to 360 traffic fatalities will occur in the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 31, to midnight Sunday, Jan. 3.

Ship Abandoned By Crew Sinks

NEW YORK (AP) — The American freighter Smith Voyager, badly damaged last week by shifting cargo and abandoned by her crew, sank Sunday while being towed toward Bermuda. The Coast Guard said the craft sank in 1,500 feet of water about 700 miles east-southeast of Bermuda.

Wealthy Businessmen Called In Gambling Case

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The federal government subpoenaed some of Houston's wealthiest businessmen as witnesses Monday for the trial of a case prosecutors say involves $9.8 million in bets.

Among those indicted is Joseph Lucia, a public relations man, on charges of conspiring to evade the 10 per cent excise tax on wagers. The businessmen were called for the trial Feb. 8 in Corpus Christi of Lucia and seven others who allegedly accepted bets from wealthy Houstonians.

Those under subpoenaes issued some time ago and returned Monday include John Mecom, William A. Smith, Wesley West and R. W. Abercrombie, all oilmen; Eric Hilton, resident manager of the Shamrock Hilton Hotel here and son of hotel magnate Conrad Hilton; W. Archer Romero, an insurance company executive; J. R. Navarro, a soft drink company executive; Henry Desenberg, retired operator of an auto parts business.

Also, Meyer Efron Jr., soft drink company executive; Leonard Rauch, executive of a plumbing supply company; Emanuel Gerson, owner of a ladies ready-to-wear store, and Dr. Frank Fisherman, a veterinarian.

The government says the $9.8 million in wagers were made in 1959 through 1964.

Home Town Honors Viet Medal Of Honor Winner

SAUGERTIES, N.Y. (AP) — The snowy, hilly streets of this old Hudson Valley community were a colorful mixture of Christmas decorations and American flags as the town's No. 1 son officially came home Monday.

He is Army Capt. Roger H. C. Donlon, 30, the first Medal of Honor winner in the Viet Nam war and the first to receive the top decoration since the Korean hostilities.

"Donlon Day" got under way at 3:15 p.m. when the tall, blond, captain emerged from his flag-decorated home at the end of Main Street, ducked under a tree branch as he's been doing since boyhood and climbed into a pale blue convertible with his mother, Mrs. Marion Donlon.

Two thousand persons lined the streets, cheering and shouting "Rog, we're proud of you." They also took pictures and saluted. The motorcade, led by a frost-bitten Saugerties drum corps, moved slowly through the principal streets to the municipal building where the auditorium was renamed in Donlon's honor.

Mayor Cornelius Cox read the inscription on a plaque to be placed in the auditorium:

"In honor of Capt. Roger H. C. Donlon, who on Dec. 5 1964, was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor by the President of the United States."

The captain received the nation's highest military honor for his heroism and leadership during a night battle last July 6 when his Special Forces unit and friendly Vietnamese troops were hit by a Viet Cong battalion. The captain was wounded four times in the successful defense of Nam Dong.

Priest Goes Into 'Exile' As Racial 'Gag' Protest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Rev. John V. Coffield, a Roman Catholic priest, said Monday he is going into "self-imposed exile" in Chicago to protest California's abolition of so-called fair-housing laws and being told by his cardinal not to speak on racial issues.

Father Coffield, 50, told a news conference that James Cardinal McIntyre, Roman Catholic archbishop of Los Angeles, had told him "I should not speak on race."

A layman, Emil Seliga, president of the Catholic Human Relations Council of Los Angeles, called the news conference at a downtown hotel so Coffield could amplify a farewell statement read to nearly 1,000 parishioners and others Sunday.

In that statement Father Coffield said he was ordered to take a five-month "enforced vacation" from California earlier this year because he had spoken out against Proposition 14. This measure, approved Nov. 3 by California voters, gives property owners absolute discretion in choosing buyers and renters of their property.

"Scarcely anyone knew of the shocking way I was ordered out of California after I had spoken out against Proposition 14," the priest said in his statement.

"I was ordered out on June 22nd and was not allowed back until Nov. 15th.

"On Saturday, Nov. 14th, I was ordered to maintain a silence on racism. I chose instead a self-imposed exile from the diocese as a gesture of protest against, and rather than be a part of, the continuing evil of silence.

"I also accept my exile as a solution to an impasse between my Cardinal and myself."

The Chancery, headquarters of the archdiocese, issued a statement Monday that said "no administrative discipline has been imposed by the archdiocese of Los Angeles on Father John V. Coffield. He requested permission to be absent from his parish and the archdiocese, and this permission was granted upon his petition.

"His departure from this area was arranged through regular processes.

"Portions of the statement issued in his name, however, demonstrate that those who concentrate excessively on a particular point, to the virtual exclusion of all other factors, will sometimes find that zeal has produced an unbalanced approach which defeats its own purpose."

Cable Car Accident

South African Negro Students Arrested In Md.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two Negro students from the Union of South Africa were arrested for trespassing when they tried to buy a beer Saturday night, state officials disclosed Monday.

The students, in the United States under State Department sponsorship, were released on $104 bond after their arrest at a Cecil County tavern near the Pennsylvania state line.

Robert C. Murphy, deputy Maryland attorney general, acknowledged the incident but declined to reveal the students' names. Murphy said and agreement not to prosecute had been reached.

Parren J. Mitchell, executive director of the State Interracial Commission, said the State Department had asked that no publicity be given the arrests.

Cecil County Sheriff Edgar U. Startt said he was called to the tavern, the Conowingo Inn, to make the arrests when the students insisted on being served.

Sheriff Startt said the tavern serves little food and for that reason doesn't fall under state or federal public accommodations laws which permit discrimination in bars.

Mitchell said the two students attend Manhattan College in New York.

LBJ Will Appoint Eight Envoys After January 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to name seven ambassadors and a minister to eight vacant posts shortly after the new year.

In reporting this Monday, authoritative sources said these appointments will start the shifting of 15 to 20 ambassadors. Johnson's intentions were reported earlier in news dispatches from Texas. Initial appointments will not involve the larger world capitals. Some changes will come in those areas later.

But month-long rumors involving two major European posts were denied Monday by official sources: David K. E. Bruce, the envoy to Britain, and George C. McGhee, the ambassador to Germany, will remain at their posts.

Johnson asked Bruce, 66, to stay on and he agreed, the informant said.

According to earlier speculations, McGhee, a Texan, was to replace Bruce in London, and William R. Tyler, now assistant secretary of state for European affairs, was to go to Bonn to replace McGhee.

The ambassadorships that are vacant now or soon will be, are in Ireland and the Netherlands in Europe; Zambia in Africa; Jamaica in the Caribbean; Yemen in the Middle East, and Australia and Indonesia in the Far Pacific.

In addition, the post of minister to Communist Bulgaria also is open and although this is not a full ambassadorship it is an important chief-of-mission assignment.

While most of the coming ambassadorial changes are believed to be more or less routine, State Department sources are cautious in speculating on how Johnson's plans will affect the department's top echelon.

All in this category, ranging from Secretary of State Dean Rusk through the undersecretaries and assistant secretaries to the ambassadors, have submitted their resignations. This is a traditional step after presidential elections to give the new chief executive a free hand in picking his aides in the foreign policy field.

Johnson's decisions still are well-kept secrets. But he seems to be nearing the time when he will reveal who will receive letters saying that the resignation has been regretfully accepted.

There appears to be only one man among the assistant secretaries who might be leaving his post: G. Mennen Williams, head of the African department. Though Williams himself remained noncommittal, rumor has had it for some time that he is toying with the idea to return to the political arena in Michigan where he was a long-time governor.

The eight vacancies around the world are:

In Europe, the United States has had no ambassador for several months in Ireland and in the Netherlands. The latest envoy to Dublin was Matthew H. McCloskey, whose name came up in the Bobby Baker investigation in connection with the building of Washington's sports stadium.

Also in Europe, the post of minister heading the legation in Bulgaria became vacant recently when Eugenie Anderson left Sofia.

In Africa, there is one vacancy: Johnson has not named his envoy to Zambia, the former Northern Rhodesia, which became independent in October.

In the Far East, the United States has no ambassador in Australia and the post in Indonesia will be vacant soon when Ambassador Howard Jones leaves Jakarta.

Cab Driver Held On Charge Of Rape

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—A Washington cab driver was held for grand jury action Monday on a rape charge after an Air Force nurse testified that he assaulted and beat her in Morningside, Md., Sunday after she engaged his cab.

Held without bond is Harvey Lee Stewart, 35. He was identified in Upper Marlboro's People's Court by the 29-year-old nurse, a WAFE captain stationed at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois, as her assailant.

He Asked For It

FREDERICTON, N.B. (AP) — Thieves stripped the lights off an outdoor Christmas tree in front of the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Baird. Incensed, Mrs. Baird put up a sign: "Will those who took all our strings of lights please take the tree, too?" They did. They also took Mrs. Baird's sign.

amined Johnson earlier this month in Washington.

Carey also submited written questions to Burkley. These were combined, the White House said, with questions submitted by 10 or 15 other reporters and answered together.

Like Cain and Hurst, Burkley said Johnson now shows no evidence of the heart attack that felled him in 1955. He answered with a "no" a question whether the President keeps an electrocardiograph in his wallet to show friends. (Johnson has done so in the past.)

Burkley had the same answer to whether Johnson keeps a kidney stone in a box to show friends.

A stone was removed in 1955 also. The President had a recurrence of kidney trouble in 1963, but Burkley said there has been none since.

Monroney Sees Chances Good In Senate Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — The contest over the assistant Senate Democratic leadership post was described by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., Monday as a close three-man race that may end with his own selection as a compromise choice.

Monroney, seeking to fill the job which Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota is leaving to become vice president, said he is confident he will be bunched with Sens. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, and John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, in the initial Democratic caucus voting on Jan. 4.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic majority leader, has notified party colleagues they will ballot secretly, with the candidate receiving the lowest total being eliminated from subsequent voting.

The election would be by a majority of those actually participating in the caucus.

Monroney said in an interview he thinks the caucus should adopt the Democratic National Convention rules, under which all candidates would remain in the balloting until one of them gains a majority of the 67 Senate Democrats eligible to vote. Under this rule, the balloting presumably would not be secret.

Although Long has claimed 30 or more votes, Monroney indicated he thinks the Southerner will fall significantly short of that mark.

Long, whose state voted in November for GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, has attracted the support of a few Senate liberals, despite his opposition to passage of the civil rights bill in the 88th Congress.

Pastore is regarded as the candidate of Eastern liberals, who think he would be more aggressive than Long in pushing social welfare legislation.

Monroney, who has a substantial record of supporting administration legislation, is offering himself as a compromise between the Southern bloc, which forms the main source of Long's support, and the Easterners backing Pastore.

Russians Given Extra Holiday

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Soviet regime Monday announced a new year's present for the Russian people, an extra day off.

The Council of Ministers, the top government organ, said workers would get paid holidays Jan. 1-3, inclusive.

The normal practice has been to make Jan. 1 a holiday as well as the following Sunday, the normal day off. New Year's Day falls on a Friday and Jan. 3 on a Sunday.

The government decision also declared Saturday a holiday.

In Border Clashes

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli and Jordanian forces exchanged mortar and small arms fire Monday in a series of clashes which lasted until late afternoon.

A U.N. spokesman said he thought that no serious damage had been done by either side. One Jordanian had been reported wounded.

Jackie Goes Skiing Again

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy took another try at Aspen skiing Monday as bright sunshine lured skiers by the thousands to the slopes.

The widow of the slain president wore a handsome black-stitched white parka, black stretch pants and the same face-hugging fur hat she wore Sunday.

Mrs. Kennedy and her children skied on a beginners' slope on Buttermilk Mountain under the eyes of instructors. Caroline wore a white jacket like her mother's and blue pants. Young John had on an all-red outfit.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., brother-in-law of Mrs. Kennedy, was reported skiing near the top of Aspen Mountain. He is described as a better than average performer on the slopes.

Five Charged In Holdup, Cop Killing

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore grand jury accused five men Monday of holding up a liquor store Christmas Eve and shooting a police lieutenant.

One of the five, who is still at large, was also charged with the fatal shooting of a police sergeant who was investigating the $2,399 stick up.

Killed by three .32 caliber bullets before dawn Christmas Day was Sgt. Jack Lee Cooper, 43, the fifth Baltimore policeman to lose his life in the line of duty this year.

The five charged in presentments were Samuel Veney, 25, his brother Earl Veney, 31; Timothy Brown, 30; Willis Taylor, 19, and Willie Ferguson, 24. All are Negroes.

Brown, Taylor and Ferguson were in custody. The Veney brothers were still the object of a citywide police manhunt.

Samuel Veney, accused of killing Cooper, was believed to be armed and was considered dangerous.

The jury returned the charges after hearing 11 witnesses, three of them police officers.

Meanwhile, Lt. Joseph Maskell was recovering in St. Joseph's Hospital from two bullet wounds in the back and the neck. His condition was described as fair.

Lt. Maskell was shot after he responded to a hold-up alarm at a Greenmount Avenue liquor store just before 10 p.m. Christmas Eve.

Less than eight hours later, Sgt. Cooper's body was found sprawled on the sidewalk near his police squad car about eight blocks away from the hold-up scene.

Two of the three bullets which struck him pierced his heart.

Police said they found a card case on the floor of the squad car. The case, police said, contained a driver's license belonging to one of the five accused men.

Almost immediately after the two shootings, large, well-armed squads of police — many of them volunteering to work their off-duty hours — began the manhunt.

Shortly after the holdup Brown was arrested in an alley near the liquor store. Taylor was pulled from under a bed in a northeast Baltimore home Saturday night. Ferguson surrendered at police headquarters Sunday morning.

Air Crash Suits Hit $21 Million

BALTIMORE (AP) — Suits totaling nearly $21 million were filed Monday in Circuit Court by relatives of 10 persons killed in the crash of Boeing 707 airliner near Elkton on Dec. 8, 1963.

Eighty-one persons died in the crash.

Butler Aviation - Friendship, Inc., a firm that refuels airliners at Friendship Airport, was named defendant.

The suits charge that the firm used fuel that was dangerous under the circumstances considering the weather and type of aircraft.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has said there was evidence that lightning struck the wing of the liner and that a fuel mixture in the same wing exploded. But at a public hearing early this year there was conflicting evidence as to whether lightning did hit the plane.

The flight originated in Puerto Rico and was en route to Philadelphia. It had stopped at Friendship.

The 10 suits ranged in value from $586,000 to $3.4 million each.

Maryland Briefs

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland's farm output in 1964 was lower than last year generally but the cash value of the crop was up 4 per cent.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service said Monday the state's commodities were valued at $129.1 million.

BALTIMORE (AP) — More and more big corporations are looking for employes at Morgan State College, a predominantly Negro school in Baltimore.

Mrs. Vivian Burghardt, assistant placement director, said 155 companies interviewed Morgan seniors for jobs last year. She said the school expected a record number this academic year.

Maryland Records 599th Traffic Death

By The Associated Press

Maryland's 1964 traffic fatality count jumped to 599 Monday with the death of a Baltimore pedestrian.

The pedestrian, in his 60s, was not immediately identified.

Authorities at City Hospitals, where the dead man was taken, said he was carrying no identification when the accident happened.

Wildcat Dock Strike Ends At Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Most of Baltimore's wildcat striking stevedores returned to work Monday as union leaders got ready to bargain with shipping interests on a new labor contract.

The wildcat walkouts that began a week ago were not completely over, however, as several gangs failed to appear for an 8 a.m. shape-up.

In general, though, ships were loaded and unloaded without interruption.

Delegates from the six International Longshoremen's Association locals here had a morning meeting to draft contract proposals for presentation to the Steamship Trade Association, which bargains for shipping interests.

At issue will be terms not covered by a so-called master contract already signed in New York. Local terms, including the size of work gangs and work guarantees, will be negotiated. Wages and working hours will not.

Dissatisfaction with the New York agreement, which sets terms for East Coast ILA members, was given as a reason for last week's wildcat strikes.

Dog Saves Youngsters

MATARO, Spain (UPI) — A dog saved the life of six-year-old Kari Lampinen on Christmas Day when the ice of a lake gave way.

Kari was playing on the ice with the dog, a pomaranian named Penu, when he plunged through the ice. The dog seized the boy's shirt sleeve and held him above the surface until Kari's uncle, who was fishing on the lake, came to the rescue.

Two Handcuff Policeman To Fence But Lose Chase

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two men, stopped by a Virginia Beach policeman Monday for questioning in a hit-run accident, overcame the officer and left him handcuffed to a fence in Norfolk. They then commandeered a taxixab and led police on a high-speed chase through the city until patrol cars overtook them.

The men, identified by police as Roger Thomas Howard, 25, and Walter Joseph Smith, 29, were held for questioning by Norfolk officers.

The two were said to be from the Baltimore area, and police said Smith escaped from a Maryland prison Oct. 10.

Police gave this account:

Howard and Smith, driving a car that had been stolen in Washington, were involved in an accident on Atlantic Avenue near 64th Street in Virginia Beach. The driver they hit pursued them. In fleeing, Smith wrecked their car at 42nd Street and Holly Avenue.

Virginia Beach policeman Wally Lamm, 23, saw them in the vicinity of the wreck, but both men told him they knew nothing about it and tried to talk him out of arresting them. Finally Smith drew a m45 automatic on Lamm and forced him into the patrol car. Howard took Lamm's revolver.

On the ride to Norfolk, Lamm tussled with Smith, and one shot was fired, but it missed the policeman.

They left Lamm on Percy Street in Norfolk, handcuffed to a fence and gagged with a handkerchief. Lamm managed to work the gag from his mouth and called for help. Norfolk police were notified.

Norfolk Police Officer E. T. Webb observed the police car in the Ocean View area. With police in pursuit, Smith and Howard abandoned the car on Lorienge Avenue, running to a cab waiting for a red light nearby. The cab driver, George H. Nelsen, was forced at gunpoint to try to outrun the police cars.

The police cars overtook the cab on Arden Circle. Smith held his automatic at Nelson's head and threatened to kill him. Officer B. G. Roberts placed his thumb in front of the pistol's hammer and with Nelson's help, wrestled it from Smith's hand.

Police said the pair had been in the Norfolk area for several days, staying in an Ocean View motel.

Egg-Nog Symbol Of Holidays

Egg-Nog is an American drink with English ancestors, says a Marylander who happens to be a professor of dairy science.

"The word Egg-nog (also egg-nog or egg-nogg) is English in derivation, but appears to have come into our language during the Colonial American period," tells Dr. W. S. Arbuckle of the University of Maryland. "Nog comes from the word Noggin meaning a small drinking vessel with an upright handle."

The College Park professor who specializes in "dairy technology" is equally versed in both the history and versatility of the holiday drink. He spins this factual take about the spirited, festive beverage:

"Apparently the Noggin was used for strong ale which came to be known as Nog. Egg-nog seems to have a close kinship with sack-posset, a milk-and-egg beverage known in England for centuries. The sack-posset was made with ale or with a sack—a dry wine of the Canary Islands and Spain.

"Originally, some milk and egg beverages were served hot—probably to warm souls in drafty, cold rooms.

But American colonists preferred it cold—to prevent its curdling; to serve it hearty with rum, brandy or whiskey; and because the New Worlders tended to like things made 'fast and easy.'

"Though the Egg-nog custom for Christmas and New Year's has prevailed for many years, its popularity is gaining. The beverage carries a holiday symbolism, which other punches do not. And it is generally available ready-made. Some dairy companies are making egg-nog for all festive occasions."

Dr. Arbuckle believes these recipes will cheer your family and friends throughout the New Year:

Favorite Dairy Egg-Nog

Plain Egg-Nog—1 quart dairy egg-nog—Serves 5 to 6 people with or without added flavorings.

If more froth is desired mix white of two eggs in blender or use simple hand beater.

Chocolate Nog—1 quart dairy egg-nog add ½ cup chocolate syrup and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Top with whipped cream and shaved chocolate.

Mocha Nog. — 1 quart dairy egg-nog add ½ cup chocolate syrup and 1 cup strong coffee. Top with whipped cream.

Cranberry Nog—1 quart dairy egg-nog add 1 quart milk and 1 pint cranberry juice.

Hot Almond Nog — 1 quart dairy egg-nog add 1 teaspoon of almond flavoring and garnish with toasted almonds.

Old English Egg-Nog—4 eggs separated, 4 tablespoons sugar, 4 cups of milk, scalded, 1 teaspoon rum flavoring, dash of salt, heavy cream, whipped nutmeg.

Beat egg yolks, flavoring, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar until lemon colored. Gradually add scalded milk, pour into punch bowl. Gradually add remaining sugar to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold into nog. Garnish with whipped cream and nutmeg. Serves 8-½ cup portions.

Old Fashion Egg-Nog—½ cup sugar, 6 eggs separated, 4 cups milk, scalded, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups heavy cream, whipped, 2 teaspoons vanilla, nutmeg.

Mix ¼ cup sugar and egg yolks in top of double boiler. Slowly add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Chill, gradually add salt and ¼ cup sugar to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites and cream into custard separately. Add vanilla. Chill. Garnish with nutmeg. Serves 20 ½ cup portions.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last February our 22-year-old daughter began to work. She opened up charge accounts all over town the day she received her first pay check.

She agreed to pay us $7.50 a week for room and board but that lasted only two weeks. From then on it was nothing but excuses.

This is the record since February: We've had to make eight checks good at the bank. She borrowed $500 from us in July when the creditors threatened to garnishee her salary. She owes $400 to dress shops and shoe stores. She refuses to answer a telephone call because she is dodging collectors.

We are honorable people and tried to raise our daughter right. What's the matter with this girl? Is she immature or does she have an inborn flaw in her character?—PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Your daughter was not born irresponsible. She GOT that way because her parents were always on hand to pull her chestnuts out of the fire — and they are still doing it.

You can expect no change until your daughter understands, once and for all, that she is strictly on her own — sink or swim. If she sinks a time or two, and nobody throws her a life-saver, she'll swim.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ours is the only society in the world in which the males are dimension-wacky. Do you notice that the men who write to you rarely refer to a woman's mind, her personality, her temperament or her character? They have a strange preoccupation, however, with vital statistics. Sample from a recent column: "She's a knockout — 38-22-34."

What some rockheads don't realize is that a woman can purchase (at a modest price) some of the dat-gummest dimension-boosters anyone ever heard tell about. It happened to my cousin. What he mistook for modesty and high standards turned out to be a clever piece of strategy to keep her phony padding a secret.

From a realistic point of view, let's assume Miss 38-22-34 is legit and I marry her. After four babies, 850 chocolate sundaes and 500 cherry pies, plus a couple of vats of spaghetti, she's a 42-30-54. Then what do I have?—THE OL' FORTUNE TELLER

DEAR OL' TELLER: Then you have a fat wife and four nice kids.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago we gave our daughter a wedding every girl dreams of. We invited ALL our relatives and friends even though we had to go deeply into debt. We are happy we did and we would do it again.

Now our son is getting married. The girl's parents are in a financial category equal to ours. We have been informed there will be 100 guests at the wedding and we can invite 50.

Our family numbers well over 200. We would need 300 invitations to do it half-way decent.

These people refuse to go into debt for their daughter's wedding. Yesterday, we were told if we want to invite 300 people, O.K., but that we'll have to pay the difference. My husband almost had a stroke. We are still paying off our daughter's wedding.

Isn't it unfair of them to have a wedding that will make people mad at us for life? Maybe a word from you will knock some sense into their heads. — ANOTHER ANN

DEAR ANN: Never mind about THEIR heads. YOUR head worries me. Everyone knows the bride's parents decide on the number of guests who will be invited to the wedding. Anyone who would be mad at you because he was not invited doesn't know much. I admire the girl's parents for refusing to hock their eye-balls to put on a fancy bash which they can't afford.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Do you impress others as being graceful or awkward as you put on your coat? With this routine, you're sure of grace!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Graceful Way To Don Your Coat

Grace and poise are twin sisters. You can never feel sure of yourself in any situation if you feel or look awkward, as any model will tell you, for it's a fact of which she is painfully aware. And there is just one answer: Learn to do all the little everyday acts with a grace that becomes natural to you.

When one of the new Powers Girls found she was going to have to put on a winter coat right out on the runway in her first big fashion show, she had more than a moment of panic. How to put on a coat gracefully is something very few girls learn at home or at school. The routine most women go through is even less graceful to behold than a professional wrestler.

It took just a few minutes to teach her how to don her coat with a smoothness that would keep all eyes upon her on the runway and make them radiate admiration. Here's the know-how you need, if you want to learn the trick yourself—and for your sake, I hope you do!

2. Now, still using the left hand, reach behind your neck and grasp the coat with your thumb and forefinger; smooth it across the left shoulder.

3. Easy does it now! No jerky thrusts! Let go of the coat with your left hand, but keep the hand at shoulder level. Bring the right hand across to grasp the left side of the coat's neck and slide it beyond the shoulder so the left hand can easily be slipped into the sleeve.

4. You're in—and if you've followed directions, without contortions! Now adjust the coat at the neckline so it falls neatly. To do this curl the fingers of both hands around the front of the neckline and give it a slight tug.

Watch yourself in your mirror as you do it. You'll be mighty proud of this newly-acquired grace!

Gluttony Exacts Its Price

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Ambulances have been rushing "to assist victims of gluttony" after the annual Christmas feasts, the Polish Press Agency — PAP — reported Sunday.

It said Warsaw had 1,000 ambulance calls and Krakaw had more than 1,000 Friday and Saturday.

In many Polish homes, Christmas is celebrated with drinkathons and eatathons from which it is bad manners to leave. There was more food and wine available in the stores this year and an extra day of holiday to recuperate.

Latin American Nations Pleased Over Panama Canal Renegotiation Plans

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The expressions of joy throughout Latin America over President Johnson's announcement that he would re-negotiate the Panama Canal treaty reflected a condition which has been hurtful not only to U.S.-Panama relations but to U.S. relations throughout the hemisphere.

For the United States' stiff refusal to renegotiate the 1903 treaty and its rights in perpetuity over the canal generally was taken as evidence of a by-gone diplomacy among free nations—of a large nation impressing its will upon a weaker one.

For the Panamanians it was a matter both of emotions and money, and twice in four years it spilled over in bloody violence.

Through the years, the overriding U.S. concern was the canal's strategic value and the obvious fact that the Panamanians neither could operate the canal nor defend it.

For the Panamanians it stood as a lasting symbol of a violation of their sovereignty and a status which reduced them to second class citizens.

The 1903 treaty itself came about as a result of a none too glorious episode in U.S. history.

After failure of a French attempt to build the canal, Colombia, which held Panama as province, granted rights to the United States but the Colombian senate delayed ratification. In November, 1903, Panama revolted and U.S. warships prevented Colombian troops from reaching Panama to put down the revolt.

Some said the U.S. paid and encouraged the rebels.

In any event, within 15 days the United States had both recognized Panama and for $10 million obtained full jurisdiction in perpetuity over a five-mile-wide strip on either side of the future canal. Subsequently annual rent was set at $250,000.

Through the years there were many U.S. concessions to the feelings of the Panamanians.

In 1936, the United States gave up its right to intervene in Panama to preserve order.

The annual rent went up in two stages to its present $1.9 million.

And in 1960, President Eisenhower ordered the Panamanian flag to be flown alongside that of the United States in the canal zone.

It was done over the objections of many in the Pentagon, members of Congress, and the "zonians", those Americans living in the zone.

This year, relations between the United States and Panama were broken on the same old issue of the canal and remained so for weeks in a haggle over whether the United States would "discuss" the old treaty or re-negotiate.

Panama has benefited from the canal through subsidiary income, to the tune of about $65 million a year, plus receiving other benefits from the alliance for progress. But she has always believed she should have more.

how NEW gas incinerators get rid of all garbage and burnable trash without smoke, odor or noise...

1. BIG CAPACITY—New Gas Incinerators have a capacity of about 1½ bushels of wrapped garbage and burnable trash.

2. AUTOMATIC TIMING—Settings from 5 minutes to 2 hours time the burning cycle for dry, damp or wet refuse. This timer lights the burner and shuts it off automatically at a pre-set time.

3. COMPLETE DISPOSAL—Gas flame burns garbage and trash completely...consumes bones, paper, peels, everything burnable . . . no worry about clogged plumbing with a Gas incinerator.

4. SMOKELESS, ODORLESS—Any leftover smoke is drawn over a second burner where the gas flame completely consumes the smoke, fly ash and all odors. Clean, smokeless, odorless air is exhausted out the flue and into the chimney.

5. NO MESS—A fine, gray cigarette-type ash is collected in a convenient pull-out drawer. Depending on your usage, it need be emptied only a few times a month

6. MODERN DESIGN—New Gas incinerators are designed and styled as modern as the other appliances in your utility room.

The addition of a smokeless, odorless Gas incinerator to the modern home eliminates, once and for all, the bothersome problems of disposing of garbage and burnable trash. You will never again have to trudge outdoors in snow and rain to empty the garbage.

New smokeless, odorless Gas incinerators are available in this area at appliance stores, department stores, plumbing and heating contractors.

For complete information on the new Gas incinerators, call your local Gas Company office.

4,500 Seek VISTA Work

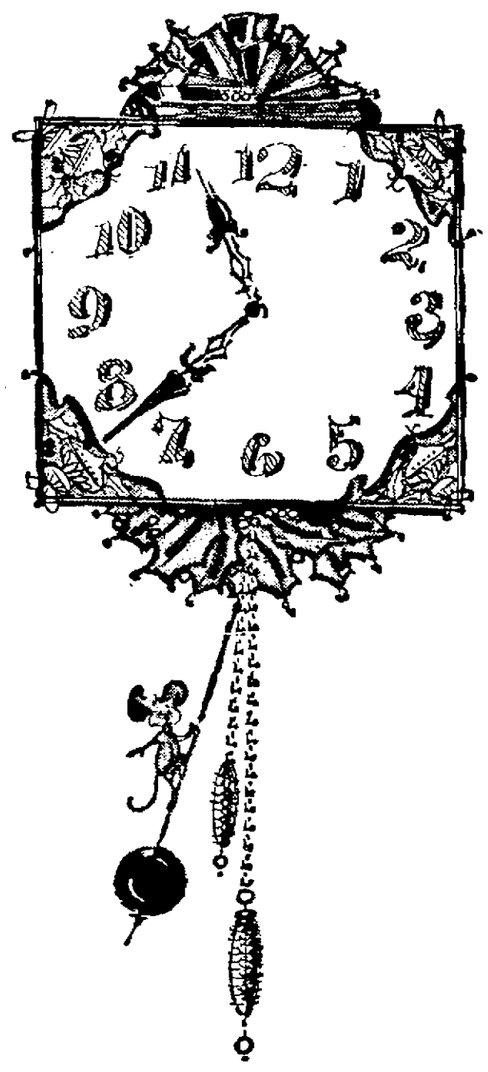

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the budding domestic peace corps said Sunday 4,500 persons have applied for places in the unique organization. And he said the volunteers will be chosen largely on a self-selection basis after a close-up look at poverty.

Glen W. Ferguson, director of Volunteers in Service to America — VISTA, said that after preliminary screening and training "we will take the candidate and place him in the environment of poverty for four to six weeks where he will be trained in the environment where we hope to have him living and working."

Such an environment, Ferguson said on Radio Press International's recorded program, "From the People," might be an urban slum, an Indian reservation, a migrant farm workers' camp or some other focus of poverty.

In such an environment, Ferguson said, "the individual himself will be able to make a decision as to whether he or she qualifies for this type of work. There will be occasions when the volunteer is not properly trained and does not have the proper motivation, but generally it's a self-selection process."

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Hollywood's stars are celebrating their Christmas holidays in a festive manner, with banquets, gifts of diamonds, watches, new houses and trips to skiing resorts.

Vincent Price and his wife Mary add a touch of the unusual to their Christmas celebration. They exchange gifts which Vincent says are "imaginative junk."

This year he gave her a seventeenth-century tea cozy of purple velvet embroidered with bead thistles.

Connie Stevens received a mink coat.

Dennis Weaver gave his wife a pair of engagement and wedding rings to replace the ones they had when they wed in 1945.

Paul Newman and his wife Joanne Woodward are in Europe. They exchanged gifts of paintings.

Singer Trini Lopez, who could afford to buy only moderate gifts a few years ago, is spending big this year. In keeping with his new status as a nightclub and recording star, Trini is giving his parents a swimming pool and a new car.

Natalie Wood bought herself some new gowns for the party season.

Ray Walston, who often rides a bicycle around the studio when he's not acting in a scene of "My Favorite Martian," gave a bike to his co-star Bill Bixby.

Frankie Avalon gave his wife Kay a new station wagon.

Robert Wagner, who lives in a home surrounded by a large plot of ground, gave his two children ponies.

Tommy Sands presented his wife Nancy Sinatra Jr. a new house. They moved in the day after Christmas.

Dick Van Dyke's wife gave him an antique clavichord, a keyboard instrument used before the invention of the piano. Mrs. Van Dyke had the instrument put in playing condition.

Judy Garland is having her daughter Liza's New York apartment equipped with stereophonic equipment.

Van Heflin presented his wife Frances with a jewel encrusted bracelet and wrist watch.

Abby Dalton and Mary Tyler Moore received new homes from their husbands. Abby's is in the Toluca Lake section of North Hollywood, Mary moved to Encino.

Janet Leigh and her family went skiing.

Edgar Buchanan is a practical man. Among the gifts to his wife is a new dishwasher.

Buddy Ebsen, a boating and fishing enthusiast, received a new salt water fishing rod and reel.

The LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will hold a special meeting today at 8 p. m. at the Fire Hall.

Water Below Crest

The water level in Lake Gordon is 3 feet below the crest of the spillway and in Lake Koon 26 feet below, Ray Nixon, water plant foreman, reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday. A year ago Gordon was 3 feet six inches below and Koon 25 feet below. Consumption for the week ending Sunday was 84,280,000 gallons compared to 72,210,000 the same period a year ago.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠

A hasty and perhaps thoughtless play at the opening gun provided South — the declarer at four hearts — with ample cause to repent at his leisure.

West opened the jack of spades which was covered in turn by the queen, king, and ace. Declarer led a diamond to North's ace in order to try the heart finesse, which lost to West's king.

There was a temptation to cash the ten of spades and then make a natural exit in the hope that he could subsequently score tricks with both the king and queen of clubs. A moment's reflection, however, convinced West that a passive course would not succeed even if South did have length in clubs. Declarer wouldn't have opened the diamond suit unless he had the king. It therefore becomes routine for him to strip out the spades and diamonds before making a club play. When West goes in with the queen of that suit, he will be forced to surrender a trick on the return.

West decided to risk a possible overtrick in an effort to get East in to make a play for him. At trick three he returned the three of spades. East covered dummy's seven with the nine and was somewhat surprised when he held the trick—not too surprised, however, to come back with a club. South played the seven and West won with the queen. The latter now exited with a trump and waited to score the setting trick later with the king of clubs.

Declarer was admittedly the victim of unfavorable distribution as well as some sparkling defense. He could have wrapped up the deal, however, by permitting West to hold the first trick with the jack of spades. The latter will presumably continue the suit; however, East never gets in. After trumps are drawn, South cashes three diamonds and then leads the jack of clubs. West is in with the queen and whatever he returns presents declarer with his 10th trick.

An examination of the combined holdings reveals that the contract is safe against any distribution as long as East is kept out of the lead. Declarer should have planned his campaign accordingly.

Officials Of City Present Resolutions

The Mayor and Council yesterday presented resolutions to the Allegany High School Band and Arrowettes and the Garden Club of Cumberland.

The appropriately framed resolutions went to the Alco groups in congratulation for its upcoming participation in the Cotton Bowl parade in Dallas New Year's Day; and to the Garden Club for winning first place in the Civic Improvement Contest in Maryland sponsored by Sears-Roebuck and Company and the Federated Garden Clubs of the state.

Mayor, Council Advocate Rail Worker Agreement

The Mayor and Council yesterday agreed to write the president of the B&O Railroad and the Interstate Commerce Commission strongly urging that a job security plan similar to that of the "Penn-Central agreement" be enacted should the stock merger plan of the B&O-C&O with the Western Maryland Railway be approved.

Letters to that effect will be sent to Roger J. Tuohy, B&O president and board chairman, and the ICC.

The motion was made by Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill who noted that the city had been asked to take action in opposition to the merger. Rail brotherhoods had also asked that the city be represented by legal counsel at the hearing January 25 to oppose the stock control plan.

Yesterday's action, however, did not go on record as opposing the merger. It concerned strictly the question of job security for local railroaders who would be affected by the stock proposal.

In general, the "Penn-Central agreement" on job security uses the retirement age as the basis for job security while the "Washington Agreement" under which local railroaders operate is for a four-year period.

Chamber Reports City Directory Being Distributed

The Chamber of Commerce said that general distribution of the new city directory has begun.

"Capsule" records of all adult citizens, firms and institutions are contained in the directory, and in no other place, the publishers, R. L. Polk and Company, Richmond, Va., stated.

The 1964 guidebook a two-column volume has just been delivered to subscribers and is ready for reference use. It lists, according to the publishers' records, 25,253 personal and business names, with the age of 18 continuing to be the minimum listing age. The count considers the combined names of man and wife as only one name, the publishers said.

Special features of the new directory include the designations of owner-occupied and rented homes, marital status, heads of households, and wives' names; a numerical telephone guide; and telephone - number listings by streets and houses.

In Cumberland, there are many primary and distinct lines of endeavor, the publishers found. These groups are catalogued in the directory's classified pages from "air conditioning" to "well drillers." Classifications run the "gamut" of enterprise, including "bakers," "clay producers," "dressmakers," "news dealers," "moving vans," "reading rooms," and "sewing shops."

The Cumberland Directory functions as a sort of ambassador for this city all over the country, showing outsiders "who's who, what, where and how," the publishers pointed out. The latest issue of the book is distributed to branches of the free-reference Directory Library system operated country-wide by the members of the Association of North American Directory Publishers, especially those located in Maryland and adjoining states.

The new roll call is flanked by A & A Barber Shop and William J. Zufall. Between these two, one will find many interesting family names, including the following: Proud, House, Pickett, Wise, Twigg, Canpon, Plummer, Knight, Rice and Cook.

Robert C. Petersen, manager of the local Chamber, said the C. of C. library contains 140 city directories from 13 states and the District of Columbia. Also contained in the library are 65 phone directories from nearby cities; a set of local telephone books dating back to 1935, and a set of Cumberland directories dating to 1913.

Mr. Petersen said the directories get considerable use by people seeking references to or trying to locate residents of former years.

City Closes Part Of Alley

The Mayor and Council held a mostly routine session yesterday, the last regularly scheduled meeting of 1964.

Council approved closing a portion of a 15-foot alley in Dingle Land Company Addition and a portion of Holzshu Terrace. The alley is located off Braddock Road. Commissioners named to assess damages or benefits were C. Glenn Watson, John Workmeister and Wally Wilson, local realtors.

Confirmed as regular members of the Police Department were John J. Stankan and Donald N. Bulger, the latter effective January 2.

Council accepted the bid of Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company in the amount of $670.58 for gate valves for the Water Department; the bid of Shahmoon Industries, Inc., New York, in the amount of $5,291 for replenishing Water Department stocks of pipe and fittings; and Super Concrete Company, Inc., bid of $553.57 for corrugated storm sewer pipe for the Street Department.

Payment of $12,151.50 to Baughman Construction Company as estimate No. 1 for the widening of Virginia Avenue between Oldtown Road and Fifth Street was approved.

Hospital Project Being Completed

Construction on the new addition at Memorial Hospital is about 70 per cent completed, according to John A. Moberly, hospital director.

Mr. Moberly said at the present time plastering on the third and fourth floors is virtually completed and ready for the installation of suspended acoustical ceilings.

Rough plastering is completed on the second floor and ground and first floors are now ready for plastering and ceramic tile installation.

Mr. Moberly said the entrances and black topping of the physicians' parking lot has been completed by the Cumberland Contracting Company. Rough grading has also been completed.

Work is also progressing on connecting the existing hospital to the connecting corridor which will service the new wing. Openings must be made in the wall on each floor of the present structure to accomplish this purpose, Mr. Moberly noted.

The new boiler to heat the new wing is fired and heating both the new addition and the existing hospital, and is being currently tested as to its efficiency.

The mechanical contractors are installing fixtures and completing the heating, air conditioning and exhaust systems.

Mr. Moberly said: "Early 1965 will see the completion and addition of this wing to the medical facilities available to the people of Allegany County and the tri-state area."

Carl Belt Inc., of Cumberland, is the general contractor on the project.

New Lighting Time Is Being Urged

County Commissioner Robert Little Ebert has written to the Mayor and Council asking that the traditional city Christmas tree-lighting program and ceremony be held on the Sunday preceding Christmas instead of a Monday.

In a letter to council, Mr. Ebert, a downtown businessman, said the program on December 21 caused the usual traffic snarl. This creates frustrations to shoppers, merchants, traffic policemen and those attending the ceremonies, he said.

By holding the program on a Sunday before Christmas, those attending would have plenty of parking space and there would be little traffic congestion, Mr. Ebert said, keeping streets free for movement of traffic on busy shopping nights.

Meter Receipts Down

Parking meter receipts the week of December 22 amounted to $912 compared to $930 the week of December 15, a decrease of $16, Inspector James Brown reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Ballet Classes Being Formed

New classes are being formed for boys and girls of all ages in classical ballet at the Central YMCA.

The instructor will be John Moyer with assistants being Eleanor Loar, Debbie Loar, Lear Loar and Kathy Roberts, Debbie Beckward, Vickie Nixon, and Beckie Gormer.

This will be the official school of the Cumberland City Ballet and any dance student may audition for the company.

Information may be obtained by calling Benjamin F. Haines, program director of Central Y, or Mr. Moyer, 722-2310.

"It was an expensive illness, but I didn't have to worry about the cost."

Illness can be enough of a problem without having to worry about the cost of hospital care. The elimination of financial worries can be pleasant medicine for any patient.

Mr. James Shea, Jr. recently spent two weeks in the hospital, and can speak from personal experience on this subject. Except for the small amount Mr. Shea paid toward the charge for the private room he chose, his entire bill was covered in full by Blue Cross. It's another example of the kind of worry-free hospital care protection Blue Cross provides for over a million Marylanders.

Blue Cross benefits are not limited to a fixed number of dollars per day or per case. Instead, Blue Cross benefits keep pace with hospital costs —with the result that most bills are covered in full.

Whether you join as a member of a group where you work—or on an individual, billed-at-home basis—Blue Cross gives you up-to-date protection against hospital care costs.

Square Footage Basis For Building Permit Fees Is Being Considered By City

The Mayor and Council yesterday asked City Solicitor Hugh A. McMullen to draw up an ordinance providing for a new basis for issuing building permits.

The action was taken after city officials heard a proposal which would put building permit fees on a square footage basis to increase revenues and provide uniformity.

The proposal was submitted by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum in a memorandum to the Mayor and Council.

At the present time under charter provisions, fees are $2 for each $1,000 of actual cost which is defined as actual expenditures for materials, labor, scaffolding and other appliances or devices necessary.

For this fee the city furnishes reviews of plan and specifications for compliance with building and zoning regulations; prepares permit forms; and inspects premises before construction begins and at least three times during construction to check compliance with city codes and ordinances.

On the average, fees collected are $20 whereas cost of administration is $35.

One reason for the service not being self-supporting is the wide range of costs declared by the home owners for similar types and sizes of new homes. The building engineer has no control over this, Mr. Nuzum stated, and has no alternative other than to accept the sworn statement of the applicant. In many cases, declared cost is less than 60 per cent of the average building costs.

Where the owner can prove that the actual cost is less than the declared value, a refund can be given on the permit fee; but the owner also has the obligation of reporting when cost exceeds the declared value and there is additional permit money owned.

However, Mr. Nuzum said, in the latter case, there has never been one in the past 12 years.

The square footage charge, which Mr. Nuzum believes would increase revenues, would be based on the building cost of $11 per square foot for regular home construction. This would made fees uniform.

Commercial buildings or unusual homes where construction costs exceed $11 a square foot, should remain under the present ordinance and a building fee based on a rate of $2 per $1,000 of actual cost be collected.

Mr. Nuzum said that in preparing the report, the department has conferred with the County Assessing Department to obtain information as to assessed values of recently constructed homes. A comparison of these values and the figure of $11 a square foot in no instance would have represented an overcharge had the building permit fee been issued on that basis, he said.

The city engineer also said many people have the mistaken idea that the permit fee governs the amount of assessment.

Workman Sues For Injuries At Searstown

A man who contends he was injured in April 1963 when a wall at Searstown collapsed on him while the shopping center was being built yesterday filed a damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Blaine L. Cutter, Midlothian, for his own use and the use of Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, filed the suit for damages against Pifalo and Costello Inc., 105 Pear Street.

Mr. Cutter states in his declaration that on April 4, 1963, he was engaged in laying conduit pipe at Searstown for his employer, Major Electrical Construction Company, Inc. He says that he was standing in a trench or ditch about 18 inches deep near the present Woolworth store.

Suddenly, a concrete wall 18 to 20 feet high and 80 feet long collapsed at the footers and fell upon the plaintiff. The plaintiff contends that he was seriously and permanently injured about his back, head and stomach and was hospitalized on three different occasions. He was confined in Sacred Heart Hospital from April 4 to April 10, 1963; from May 7 to May 17, 1963, and from March 25 to April 3, 1964.

Mr. Cutter charges that the defendant's work in building the wall in January 1963 was responsible for the wall's collapse. The Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York was the insurer of the plaintiff's employer and paid the plaintiff workmen's compensation benefits.

Another damage suit was filed yesterday in Circuit Court by Charles Sweeney against Paul Chester Twigg, 528 North Mechanic Street. The plaintiff states that his car was parked on Greene Street on November 21 when it was struck by the defendant's car. Damage to the car was estimated at $600 and the plaintiff also contends that he was without the use of his car for 30 days while the car was being repaired.

Two Hospitalized In Turnpike Crash

Two 22-year-old Washington men were admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital yesterday with injuries sustained in a one-car crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike about six miles west of the Everett barracks.

The driver of the sedan, Henry H. Cauthorne Jr., was reported to have sustained a fractured leg and laceration of his face. Also hospitalized was Herbert E. Parnes, who suffered a possible fractured left wrist and contusions of his knees.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 487 The night of Dec. 20, 1864, Lt. Gen. W. J. Hardee telegraphed to President Jefferson Davis at Richmond, "On the 19th the enemy forced a landing so near my communications that to save the garrison it became necessary to give up the city (Savannah). Its evacuation was successfully accomplished."

Next morning, John W. Geary's Second Division, XX Corps, on Sherman's left wing, led the Union forces into the city. The national colors were raised again at the Custom House. W. T. Sherman telegraphed President Lincoln in Washington, "I beg to preesnt you as a Christmas gift, the city of Savannah, with 150 guns and plenty of ammunition and also about 25,000 bales of cotton."

The president responded, "Many, many thanks for your Christmas gift. . . . It is indeed a great success. . . . But what next?"

Next for Sherman's men, who had been moving continuously for weeks under such difficulties as those shown here [↓], was more of the same. Grant had ordered Sherman: "Establish a base on the seacoast, fortify . . . and so threaten the interior that the militia of the South will have to be kept home. With the balance of your command come here with all dispatch."

That meant precede northward through the Carolinas to link up with Grant in Virginia. The curtain was rising on the final act of the great drama; it would be over early in 1865.

Central Criminal Records System Is Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Crime Investigating Committee proposed Monday the creation of a central criminal records system for lawmen throughout the state.

The committee suggested that the records be maintained and operated by the State Police.

Alvin Zumbrum, executive director of the committee, made the proposal to a panel appointed by Gov. Tawes to investigate charges of sloppy records keeping in the Baltimore City Police Department.

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Thomas Finan, who heads the panel, Zumbrum said, "It seems ridiculous to admit that today an arrested burglar can be locked up in one of our southern counties and that our Baltimore police can be searching for that same individual on another burglary complaint."

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Betty Boyd, dean of women at West Virginia University, will attend an international conference on student exchange programs at Cannes, France, Jan. 25-30, the University said Monday.

Traffic Study

In response to further questions, Mr. Pratt said that after a study is completed, the city will have indicators available on which to determine when any re-analysis is deemed necessary. The traffic report also will contain recommendation as to how the recommendations should be administered, and said any plan to be successful must have the cooperation of all municipal departments.

The Institute of Traffic Engineers, he stated, recommends that a traffic engineer be hired by cities with a population of more than 30,000, although frequently such work is handled by either one or a combination of municipal offices.

Mr. Pratt told city officials he recognized that Cumberland has some unique problems in regard to its traffic, and that railroads post a definite problem.

He added that every city in which the firm has worked has had its peculiar problems.

Red Cross Aides Get Certificates

New Social Welfare Aides of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, received pins and certificates at a meeting of the SWA Group at the home of Mrs. Ellen McKenzie, McMullen Highway, chairman.

An abbreviated session was held as chapter staff members were on emergency status because of fires in the Cumberland area.

Social welfare aides work under the guidance of the Home Service unit of the chapter and are trained to help individuals or family through such services as counseling, sending emergency messages and giving financial assistance.

They serve in Red Cross programs for servicemen, veterans and their families in chapters and on military installations.

The next meeting of the SWA is scheduled January 13.

We cordially invite you to visit our 2nd annual Christmas display of The Babe in the Manager. There are live animals and the Burro used is the same as the ones used in Bethlehem as a mode of present day travel.

It is located on the grounds of the John J. Hafer Chapel of the Hills Morutary at the intersection of Braddock Road and Route 40.

The scene is intended to remind us of God's gift to mankind and of his promise to us for Peace on Earth. We hope that you will enjoy our effort and share our longing for abiding love among men of good will.

Christmas Gifts Back On Shelves

A sizable proportion of the gifts left beneath Christmas trees already has gone back on the shelves of the retail stores from whence they came. This return of wares to the home roost is a feature of merchandising that stores have long since recognized as a definite part of the retail business at Christmas.

And, instead of resisting it, merchants in general have taken steps to make these returns as easy as possible—on the theory that a liberal attitude is a matter of good public relations.

Only a few of these transactions represent a clash between the taste of the gift buyer and the recipient — resulting in the latter being in possession of something she or he "wouldn't wear to a dogfight." The bulk of the returns are for size, for color or for style. And merchants are frank to say that some of these cases are of their own making. They concede that with so many extra clerks on hand for the holiday rush, mistakes are inevitable.

In certain respects, the return and exchange of gifts shape up as a reshuffling of merchandise. The woman, size 40, who returned a size 36 garment is tickled to get one that fits her but had been returned by an original recipient who "just can't wear pink."

And the woman who "wouldn't be caught dead" in her gift may go home happy with an item someone else had carted back to the store for the very same reason.

All this ebb and flow of goods requires time and patience on the part of retail staffs. It doesn't show up in sales volume but it does result in good will.

These Days

More Rebels Without Causes?

The student generation that is pushing the current "personalist" rebellion has a name for itself. It is the "committed generation," a designation which sets it apart from the so-called "silent generation" of the Nineteen Fifties.

The psychological need for commitment, of course, is common to practically everybody save a few professional cynics, and even these derive positive satisfaction from whatever skill they may be able to muster in expressing their point of view. But there is something strange about this agitation for commitment for the sake of commitment itself. It recalls to this column some frustrating arguments in the post-war Paris of 1946, when the intellectuals were "existentially" calling for the need for "involvement," without ever coming down to cases about what they proposed to involve themselves in.

As a veteran of the generational wars of the Nineteen Twenties and Thirties, I think I can see a signal difference between the oldtime rebellions and the current rage for "commitment" for its own sake. In the Twenties and Thirties, the "cause" or the "movement" came first, putting forth its various lures. One became committed without ever thinking about anything so self-conscious as the duty to become "involved." At the risk of being scoffed at as an old gaffer, I would say that this current crop of rebellious "personalists" is a cart-before-horse generation. It hasn't found what it wants to do, but it is "doing" anyway.

In the rebellious period in which I grew up one committed one's self to something tangible without agonizing about the psychiatric or the therapeutic aspects of the decision. A Scott Fitzgerald or a Hemingway set out to express a vision of life in disciplined prose, and it scarcely mattered whether this involved getting an advanced degree in English as a bureaucratic evidence of competence. A John Scott, wanting to test the reality of Communism, went to Soviet Russia and got a job in a steel mill. A Walter Reuther pushed automobile unionism. A Martha Graham made up new dances. Would-be scientists went into laboratories; embryonic concert pianists practiced scales. And convinced New Dealers went to Washington and got down-the-line jobs in the various agencies.

Today, by contrast, the student in search of some satisfying dedication couches his needs in psychiatric terms that betray an inner emptiness. Lewis S. Feuer, a University of California professor, offers some vivid testimony to this in a recent New Leader magazine article in which he quotes Mario Savio, the 21-year-old leader of the recent campus rebellion at Berkeley. Savio, it seems, went to Mississippi last summer not because of any burning love for the brotherhood of man. "My reasons," he says, "were selfish. . . . It was not really a matter of fighting for constitutional rights. I needed some way to pinch myself, to assure myself that I was alive.

Now we will have to break down the fiction of the separation of student and citizen. We are breaking down the fiction of roles. We are breaking down barriers set up in a lot of people's personalities. That is what drives the student movement on."

Now this says everything — and it also says nothing. How do you break down any "fiction" of the separation of student and citizen" when you are either a committed student (studying something you have a passionate interest in mastering) nor yet a citizen taking part in a movement in which you don't have to pinch yourself to see if you are alive?

It is a curious thing that society—or an institution of society such as the University of California—has to suffer because a student feels he must pinch himself to see if he is alive. The fault may be society's, or it may be the fault of the over-organized, non-intimate American university. But if the young generation is not entirely to be blamed for a feeling of emptiness, it would be a more promising thing if our Mario Savios were to find a satisfying cause before proceeding to act. The horse should lead the cart.

Revolution for its own sake produces a Fidel Castro, a rebellious student who has consumed Cuba to assure himself that his digestive processes are in working order. Talk about "breaking down the fiction of roles"! This is the biggest actor's business of role-seeking that you could want.

The Dangerous Panty Waver

LBJ Preparing To Accept Defeat In Vietnam?

By Joseph Alsop

SAIGON — The renewed attack of governmental quasi-chaos, which is endemic here, ought to persuade the American policy makers to face a few disagreeable facts — although it probably will not have this effect.

Fact one is simple. President Lyndon Johnson was putting the cart before the horse when he grandly commanded Ambassador Maxwell Taylor to "stabilize" South Vietnam's politics, as a prior condition to any new American steps to deal with the war crisis here.

In the present stage of the war crisis, South Vietnamese politics closely resembles the croquet game in "Alice" — with one important difference. The game in "Alice" was played with flamingos for mallets and hedgehogs for balls; and their tendency to unwind caused the game's permanent instability.

But the game here is partly played with cobras for mallets and puff adders for balls, which makes it considerably more dangerous.

It is the wrong game for the American embassy to play, and it always has been. The Vietnamese are a brave and intelligent people, but a people who were deprived of any political life of their own for a very long time. And it is almost comically silly to try to organize the kind of government in Vietnam that will win the august approval of American editorial writers who know nothing of Asia and always seem to forget that the alternative is the bleak and ruthless tyranny of Asian communism.

The right game to play here has twice been urged on President Johnson, last spring when the government was headed by Gen. Nguyen Khanh and a few weeks ago when Ambassador Taylor returned to Washington after the installation of Prime Minister Tran Van Huong.

On both occasions the President was warned that the position was deteriorating, and he was asked to consider stronger military measures to change the trend. On both occasions the choice was unpleasant, for taking stronger measures unavoidably meant taking greater risks. And on both occasions the President dodged the choice by saying that he first wanted to see what could be done about the political situation.

Such were General Taylor's instructions when he was sent out here as ambassador. Such, once again, were General Taylor's instructions at the close of the recent White House meeting. He is one of the most admirable American public servants of our time, and he has done his level best.

But the general position has continued to deteriorate, just as President Johnson was warned it would; and the political situation has by no means improved.

Hence, the choice that has already been twice presented to the President has now become more urgent than ever. There is no way out any longer, except to try to deal with the war crisis first and to leave the political situation for later consideration.

If this seems a strange approach, it must be noted, first of all, that the American interest in Vietnam does not necessarily demand a model government in Saigan.

It would be nice to have such a government. But all that the American interest here demands and demands imperatively — is avoidance of defeat in this war. And this simply means prevention of a Communist takeover.

Secondly, it must be noted that dealing with the war crisis is the only way to create the essential conditions for comparative governmental stability. The government is unstable precisely because the war is going badly. It will grow more unstable as the war goes worse, if the United States goes on permitting continuous deterioration in the general position.

Finally, it must also be noted that if stern measures are not taken pretty soon to change the course of this war, the United States is almost certainly doomed to suffer the greatest defeat in American history. Pearl Harbor, after all, was a mere episode, whose ultimate sequel was victory around the world. But defeat here will be both shattering and final; and both its character and its consequences will make it a bitter new experience for the United States.

There are plenty of discouraged Americans in Saigon who think the President is consciously prepared to accept defeat here. They believe that he cannot bring himself to take the measures needed to avert defeat; and they therefore suspect he is simply planning to wait until the end comes and then to disclaim responsibility.

But since the President has the means to avert defeat, he cannot disclaim responsibility. It will be his defeat, as well as a defeat for the American people and for millions of unhappy Vietnamese. It does not seem credible that Lyndon B. Johnson intends to accept and preside over such a defeat. But the alternatives open to him are narrowing very fast.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

How to name a new country — Dr. Kaunda, head of state of the newly-independent African nation of Zambia, recently made an official visit to the United States. Unlike some of his contemporaries, Kaunda is an intelligent, well-educated national leader who deeply impressed official Washington with his clear thinking and forceful oratory.

While most of his time was taken up with matters of utmost seriousness — he was in Washington during the height of the recent crisis in the Congo — he still found time for the lighter side of things.

One question he was asked repeatedly concerned the source of his country's name. He explained that when it was being formed, some of the leaders cast about for a name that would be symbolic of the area. They noted that their country's outstanding geographic feature was a mighty river — the Zambezi.

From this thought grew the idea of naming the new country Zambezia, but it was thought to be too long and too difficult to pronounce. Someone got the bright idea of telescoping it: hence, Zambia.

While Dr. Kaunda tells the story in good humor and in a slightly apologetic manner because of the kind of thinking that went into the name, he is a dedicated nationalist and voices complete confidence in the ultimate success of the adventure into independence.

Freezing Not Yet An Effective Ulcer Remedy

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The treatment of peptic ulcer by freezing the inner lining of the stomach was started in 1961 at the University of Minnesota. Three years and 15,000 patients later we are not certain whether the method is worthwhile. Dr. Owen H. Wangensteen, pioneer of this technique, continues to have faith in it and believes further improvements will better the results.

The procedure requires a special freezing unit that circulates alcohol in and out of a balloon swallowed by the patient. The temperature of the alcohol is minus 20° C. and the balloon remains in place 40 to 60 minutes.

The immediate results often are dramatic in that pain disappears and the ulcer crater starts to heal. Acid secretion is depressed but, within a short time, returns to the pre-freeze levels. With each passing month, more and more encounter a return of ulcer and distress.

Dr. Wangensteen treated more than 600 ulcer victims. After a period varying from 12 to 30 months, only 14 per cent were free of discomfort. But he remains optimistic because all of these patients had an intractable ulcer that did not respond to diet, pills, powders, and equanimity.

They were candidates for surgical removal of part of the stomach or the bypass operation. Only 4 per cent of the group required surgery. Freezing was justified because it is safer than surgery.

On the other hand, the procedure has been abandoned temporarily in many institutions because more and more of the failures ultimately need operation. Freezing must do a better job than existing methods before it can be accepted as an effective remedy for recurring peptic ulcer.

OVERWEIGHT

S. S. writes: I had a stroke 3½ years ago and can walk with a cane and have learned to write again. My problem is that I weigh almost 50 pounds too much, due to inactivity. Would it be safe for me to go on a diet?

REPLY

Yes, even though it may be difficult to lose weight because of inactivity.

INFECTION WITH AMEBAS

B. P. writes: I have been under treatment for three months for amebic dysentery. Is this condition curable?

REPLY

Yes. In stubborn cases, it may be necessary to use several different remedies at varying intervals to eliminate these parasites. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on amebiasis.

YOU CAN DONATE

B. S. writes: Recently a relative asked me to donate blood. I refused because I'm taking treatment for high blood pressure. Do you think this is a good reason?

REPLY

No, because loss of blood may help lower a high pressure. If your blood count is normal, removal of a pint of blood should not disturb your equanimity.

SALVES ARE BETTER

Mrs. D. M. writes: Is there a pill for psoriasis? I'd rather take something internally than fool around with messy salves.

REPLY

No. Cortisone helps, but the side reactions are not worth the risk in this skin condition.

FINDING POLYPS

H. L. writes: How are intestinal polyps diagnosed?

REPLY

By means of a sigmoidoscope and X-rays.

TOMORROW: Renal Hypertension.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Morris, longtime waiter at a Broadway restaurant, realized that his end was near, but assured his wife, "Sarah, any time you want to see me, I'll come back." Then, cheerful to the end, he passed away.

One day Sarah visited a spiritualist, and said, "I must see my Morris. He's expecting my call." The spiritualist turned out all the light, and whispered, "Knock three times."

Sarah knocked, but nothing happened. She knocked louder — again without result. Thoroughly annoyed, she cried, "Morris, this is the last time I call you. Come here immediately."

There was a vivid flash of lightning, and there was Morris.

"So, you finally came," said Sarah. "Why didn't you appear the first time I knocked?"

Morris drew himself up, and pointed out haughtily, "It's not my table."

Rep. Robert Taft thinks the GOP should have a national policy board to set its course. That way the voters can at least be informed next time on where the party wants to go.

Most Republicans aren't so worried over where the party wants to go. Just if it will.

Some Republicans in Congress are a bit restless over continuing the "Ev and Charlie" show. Lack of sponsors.

Laos Gives Tacit Approval To U. S. Air Strikes Over Red Supply Trail

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Here are some of the backstage developments taking place behind the headlines in the explosive Vietnamese imbroglio:

Development No. 1—The United States has begun bombing the Ho Chi Minh Trail just across the border inside neutral Laos. In the past ten days three strikes were made by Air Force jets, one strike by the Navy.

The strikes were made with the knowledge and tacit approval of the Laotian government, which is irked over the flood of communist arms coming into its own territory.

Reason why U. S. bombers are striking at Laotian territory is because the Ho Chi Minh Trail, named for the famed communist leader of North Viet Nam, fans out after it hits the South Vietnamese jungle and is almost impossible to detect. Even where the trail is more easily discernible in Laos, the bombing is difficult and the strikes frequently miss the targets. Wartime bombing of the heavily populated Ruhr and Rhineland was much easier.

Development No. 2 — Gen. Khanh's ousting of the South Viet Nam civilian government took Ambassador Maxwell Taylor completely by surprise. This is the second time he was caught off base by a government turnover.

U. S. military men in Saigon, in contrast, were not taken by surprise. They suspected the coup was coming.

Probable reason why Ambassador Taylor was in the dark was because Gen. Khanah is now suspected of being a neutralist, of wanting to follow the lead of Laos and Cambodia in ditching the United States. His recent blasts against Ambassador Taylor appear to bear this out, also his statement, "It is better to live poor but proud as free citizens of an independent country rather than in ease and shame as slaves of the foreigners and communists."

Development No. 3—The American Embassy in Cambodia has warned that the top neutralist of the Indo-China peninsula, Prince Sihanouk, is seriously considering breaking diplomatic relations with the United States.

Some Asian experts in the State Department propose beating the Prince to the punch by breaking with him first, accusing him of aiding the communists and then blocking communist arm shipments by bombing Cambodian bases along the border.

Development No. 4 — Gen. William Westmoreland, the U. S. Commander in South Viet Nam, came home to attend his father's funeral, and while here dropped in at the Pentagon to brief the Joint Chiefs of Staff. His report was anything but optimistic.

The war against the communist guerrilas is going so badly, Gen. Westmoreland said, that it will take a dramatic and drastic move to reverse the tide. Obviously Gen. Khanh's seizure of the government is not going to be such a reversal.

Johnson's Alternatives

This leaves President Johnson with constantly narrowing alternatives:

He can bomb North Viet Nam and risk a world war which nobody wants.

Or he can struggle along trying to bolster a regime which isn't worth bolstering and whose leader now says he doesn't appreciate American bolsterage.

Or he can turn the whole problem over to the United Nations.

What Johnson faces is essentially what Eisenhower inherited in Korea after he was elected by a tremendous margin in 1952. Ike accepted what was actually a defeat in Korea. But his prestige was such that he got away with it. Johnson's prestige is great enough to turn the Viet Nam problem over to the UN if he acts soon. If there is too much erosion and too much delay, he can't.

Johnson's Gifts

The President and Mrs. Johnson have sent their friends each a jar of honey and a loaf of home-baked bread for Christmas. Both are delicious.

When the President was a Senator, he used to send friends Texas-grown turkeys. But as his circle of friends increased, he switched to Lady Bird's home-baked bread.

Today Lady Bird's circle of friends is even larger, so now she gets help from the White House cook in baking the bread. However, the White House cook follows Lady Bird's recipe and most recipients of the bread wouldn't know the difference.

The honey comes from the bees on the LBJ ranch. They are Italian bees — as are most honey bees in the United States — and they produce a pale, very sweet honey, different from the darker honey produced from poplar trees and wild flowers in Maryland.

No Race Or Religion Necessary

President Johnson rasied Cain when he read this column last week and noted that members of his "President's Club" had been sent a questionnaire asking them their race and religion as a requirement for getting choice inaugural tickets. The President's Club is composed of contributors who have coughed up $1,000 or more for LBJ's re-election, and the President didn't like the idea or requiring them to state whether they were Catholic, Protestant, or Jew; white, Negro, or Indian.

So a letter was hastily sent by the Democratic National Committee signed by Dick Maguire which read:

"Dear President's Club Member:

"Due to an inadvertence, my recent request for biographical material from you included the suggestion that you list your race and religion.

"I want you to disregard this request, and have you realize that these categories slipped by in our haste to get out the inaugural mailing to you."

The First Christmas

Part Five

By Jim Bishop

(This is a special story for Christmas. It is the result of three pilgrimages and considerable research in the Holy Land, from which two best sellers were written: The Day Christ Died, and The Day Christ Was Born.)

In the evening, he visited her house. Joseph made the formal greetings to her parents, and then turned to Mary. When he looked at her, he smiled shyly and she saw at once that the deep hurt was no longer in his eyes. Mary felt like shouting: "You know! You know!" but, instead, she murmured the proper words of courtship, and displayed the devotion of a woman to a man by bringing haroseth and dried figs and wine, and placing them before him.

That night, as Joseph walked home, he was troubled. If all this was true, then what part was he to play in the highest drama in the history of the world? If his wife was to bear the true Messiah, then Joseph could not be a true husband. He would have to treat her as a sacred vessel of the Divine Will. And, if that were so, then he understood the part he was to play: he would be the man of sacrifice; the guardian of the infant who was destined to bring peace to all men, the one who would so love his brothers that he would die for them, not in defeat but in victory.

On the evening of the fourth day they were at Jericho, a few miles north of the Dead Sea and within sight of the chocolate mountains of Moab. Joseph suggested that they stay at an inn, but Mary shook her head. She desired to press on because she knew, better than he, that her time was growing shorter. She saw the sun setting behind the Wilderness, the desolate mountains between Jericho and Jerusalem, and she knew that they would not be in the Sacred City tomorrow, because the distance was twenty-three miles, all of it climbing. Even when they reached Jerusalem, there would be six miles more to travel before they reached Bethlehem.

It was not Mary's desire that the baby should be born in Bethlehem. She would have felt more content to be near her mother in Nazareth. The decision, in a way, had been made by Caesar Augustus. The Jews were in bondage to Rome and Caesar needed tribute to keep his armies in the field. He had supported Herod as King of the Jews so long as Herod was more faithful to Rome than to Judea.

The Jews, Caesar Augustus said, were not paying their fair share of the taxes. As a province of Rome, they would have to do better. King Herod was ordered to obtain an accurate census of the people, and the only way in which this could be done without having Jews slip out of one town and into another while noses were being counted would be to order the head of each family to take his kin to the city of his forebears and to remain there within a week after the beginning of the winter solstice.

Joseph was of the House of David, which is Bethlehem. So was Mary. Herod did not consider advanced pregnancy, nor even grave illness, as an excuse for disobedience. One could not expect mercy from a man who, in jealousy, had his wife and children killed for no reason other than his own sick suspicions.

In the morning, Joseph lifted his bride onto the donkey and, shaking his long brown curls back from his face, started the climb on the road to Bethany and Jerusalem. From time to time, they looked down from the mountain roads and watched the shepherds. The grass was lush deep in the valleys, the shepherds and their flocks mingled from time to time, the men leaning on staffs to talk of weather and fodder.

When they parted company, one shepherd would emit a low whistle. At once, all of his sheep and none of the others would turn to follow him. Joseph walked with a longer, swifter stride, and talked less. The donkey yanked his head against the pull of the halter rope, but Joseph plodded on. He did not know much about the mysteries of birth, but he sensed that Mary, jogging for several days on the animal, and sleeping on the stones of the field, must be close to her time. Otherwise, she would not have refused his offer to take her to the inn at Jericho.

In the late afternoon, the little family passed Bethany and followed the road around the Mount of Olives. At the top of the rise, the beginnings of sunset were ahead, with broad bands of golden light shafting down between clouds of lavendar and concord blue and slate gray and peach. The young carpenter looked. His throat constricted with emotion. "Jerusalem," he said softly, pointing. Mary's head was hanging. She looked up, a tired young lady with dust powdered on her face and heaviness in her eyes. She saw the thick formidable wall of the city on the far side of the little valley of the Cedron and, behind the wall, and sitting above it like a cabochon topaz, the Great Temple of Solomon.

Long Drought Hurt Farms In Seven Counties

Loan Eligibility Being Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drought affected farmers in seven West Virginia Counties will still be able to get low-interest loans from the U. S. Agriculture Department through 1965.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D - W. Va., announced Monday extension of eligibility for the loans and said the program had been extended into two more counties.

Extensions were granted to Hampshire, Hardy, Jackson, Kanawha, Marion, Mineral and Monongalia Counties. Added to the list of those eligible were Grant and Pendleton Counties.

All qualify under evidence of substantial damage and losses in 1964 to crops and pastures as a result of prolonged drought.

The program provides loans at 3 per cent interest to farmers needing them to continue normal operations. They average $3,200 and are usually repaid at the end of the year.

W. Va. PBW Resumes Work On New Budget

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Board of Public Works (BPW) resumes work Tuesday on budget recommendations it will present to the Legislature Jan. 13.

Decisions remain to be made on recommended appropriations for public schools, West Virginia University and a few small agencies — and whether to grant the State Road Commission $6 million from general revenue to help cover bond obligations.

A BPW spokesman said the amount recommended for education — including a multi-million dollar increase requested by the Education Department with backing from the Education Association and School Board Association — will depend on what is done with the SRC request.

Most of the Road Commission's fund come from highway user tax revenue, but for the past several years the Legislature has supplemented this with $6 million from the general revenue.

Decisions also must be made on the revenue estimates the BPW will present to the Legislature, on supplemental appropriations and on appropriations from the surplus expected at the close of the present fiscal year next June 30.

WVU Completes Final Volume On State Flora

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —More than 2,000 species of uncultivated plants growing in the state are described in "Flora of West Virginia"—publication of whose fourth and final volume was announced Monday by West Virginia University.

The publication, climaxing 40 years of research at WVU, is described as the most extensive study on native vegetation ever undertaken.

It covers field, herbarium and library studies by a number of authorities, including lengthy and detailed studies of plant life in every county.

All plants growing in a natural state in West Virginia are included except such primitive forms as algae and lichens, Dr. Earl Core, professor and chairman of biology, said.

The first volume of the 1,106-page series was printed in 1952, the second in 1953 and third in 1958.

National Guard Units Are All Desegregated

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Maj. Gen. Paul M. Booth, commanding officer of Virginia's 8,000 member National Guard, said Monday Virginia's guard is "open to anyone interested and who can qualify and always has been."

President Johnson Monday endorsed a committee report urging further desegregation of the guard across the nation, even if it meant withholding federal funds, permitted under the 1964 Civil Rights Law.

Booth said there were several Negroes in Virginia guard units — "Just how many, I don't know."

Students Tour Romney Area

ROMNEY — Three agriculture students from Tanganyika recently made a tour of Romney Orchards grading and packing operation. They also inspected one of the orchards owned by that firm.

The Western Union microwave station, near Romney, was also toured by the group.

Training to work as soil conservationists in their home nation, they were accompanied to Romney by George Sharpe, state extension soil conservationist, and Russell G. Ellyson of the Appalachian Center.

New Plant Will Open

OAKLAND—The establishment of an electronics type plant will be effected here the first of the year.

Known as the Glenn Engineering Company, the plant will operate a key punch machine to record accounting and statistical data on tab cards.

Twenty to 30 persons will be employed, and applications already are being received at the office of the U. S. Employment Service. The necessary machinery is to be set up in the building formerly occupied by the knitting mill, just west of town.

The new plant will be an additional facility for the company since there is already one in operation at Rockville. The company will do work for the federal government and other agencies.

The owner, Thomas Glenn, a summer resident of Deep Creek Lake, at present is occupying a trailer in that area.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia motorists were advised Monday by State Police Supt. W. E. Burchett that every available member of the 280-man force would be on road patrol for the upcoming New Year holiday weekend.

He said police in many areas will be augmented by auxiliary police and others "who are volunteering to help make New Year's Eve as safe as possible."

He said motorists — whether they are planning to attend church services or take part in New Year's Eve celebrations at night clubs "must be alert to the hazards inherent in holiday traffic."

Hobbyist Opens Model Display At Mt. Savage

Small engines, trains, passenger cars, trolley cars, a merry-go-round, ferris wheel, sawmill, steam shovels, feed mill operated with a water wheel, dinky engine, a replica of the B & O "Tom Thumb" and the C & P passenger train last seen on the road in 1929 are shown.

The entire layout is constructed in a park setting with waterfalls, bridges and rivers, surrounded by villages and highways where vehicles may be seen operating in a realistic manner. The display which requires a room 16 by 20 feet, will be open for public viewing from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. daily through January 10.

Washington's Famed Landmarks Attract Millions Of Visitors The Year 'Round

WASHINGTON—The landmarks of Washington, D.C., each year draw millions of visitors who often overflow the city during holidays and special events such as a Presidential Inauguration.

To help visitors, the National Geographic Society recently remapped the Nation's Capital, producing an up-to-date new double map, "Tourist Washington" and "Suburban Washington." The city is the ninth largest in the United States and fastest growing of the top 15.

Not surprisingly, the most exciting features of the Geographic's new map are not new at all, but the familiar old buildings that are visible signs of America's invisible spirit.

Seat of Democracy

Foremost is the Capitol, seat of democracy, and scene of the inaugural ceremonies on January 20. Here great decisions are made, and laws enacted. A 45-minute tour (25 cents) covers the highlights. To view a session of either house, visitors must obtain a pass from the office of a member. (Open 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., every day but Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's.)

Facing the Capitol on the east stands the white marble temple that houses the Supreme Court, where laws and decisions of lower courts are reviewed. (9 to 4:30 weekdays, 9 to noon Saturday.) Decisions are handed down at 11 a.m. on Mondays.

Any adult can use—but not borrow — the Library's materials. (Exhibit halls: 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays, 11:30 to 10 Sundays and holidays. Reading rooms: 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 to 6 Saturday, 2 to 6 Sundays and holidays.)

West of the Capitol stretches the green Mall, flanked by buildings of the Smithsonian Institution. One of the youngest of the world's great galleries, the National Gallery of Art houses a collection to satisfy every taste, except the most modern. (10 to 5 Monday through Saturday; 2 to 10 Sundays and holidays.)

Other Smithsonian buildings show, in cogent new displays, history and natural history. Treasures include the Wright Brothers and Lindbergh planes, Lincoln's hat, Polaris and Jupiter rockets —the list is endless. The new Museum of History and Technology houses the original Star-Spangled Banner. (Winter: 9 to 4:30 every day but Christmas; summer: 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.)

Repository of Documents

The Archives protects the documents on which America is based— the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and Bill of Rights. (9 a. m. to 10 p. m. Monday through Saturday, 1 to 10 Sundays and holidays.)

Tours of the Federal Bureau of Investigation include displays of its work in fighting crime. There is a marksmanship demonstration by agents, and the riddled targets are given to children (9:30 to 4 weekdays.)

Monumental Washington is centered at the west end of the Mall. From the top of the 555-foot Washington Monument, vistors get their best overall view of the city. (Every day except Christmas. Labor Day through March 14, 9 to 5; spring and summer, 8 a. m. to 11 p. m.)

The heroic statue of Lincoln by Daniel Chester French sits brooding in the Lincoln Memorial, imposing a hush even on children. (Every day but Christmas, 8 a.m. to midnight, particularly rewarding after dark.)

In the Jefferson Memorial by the Tidal Basin with its cherry trees, the third President stands in bronze, surrounded by quotations from his writings. These include, "I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man." (Every day but Christmas, 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.)

At the most famous address in town, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. N. W., stands the White House—home of all American Presidents except George Washington. The renovation directed by Jacqueline Kennedy has made it particularly popular. Lines form early for tours. (10 a. m. to noon, Tuesday through Saturday.)

Exhibit of Spanish Gold

A striking landmark in midtown is the National Geographic Society's new white-marble headquarters building. Explorers Hall on the ground floor offers exhibits from around the world. A special display of gold and treasure from a Spanish fleet sunk off Florida in a 1715 hurricane will run from December 16 to February 28. (9 to 7 weekdays, 9 to 5 Saturdays, noon to 5 Sundays. Admission is free.)

On lower 14th Street, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing calmly manufactures some $36 million in paper money every working day. Tours enable visitors to see—but not touch—about a million dollars' worth. (8 to 11 a. m., 12:30 to 2 p. m., Monday through Friday.)

Across the Potomac, an Eternal Flame glows endlessly to mark the grave of President John F. Kennedy in Arlington Cemetery. (8 to 5 every day.)

Searchers Blast For Missing Men

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI) —Searchers set off underwater explosives near the mouth of Guyan Creek north of here over the weekend in hopes that the bodies of two duck hunters believed drowned would come to the surface.

Eleven days ago John Meadows Jr., 25, and Robert E. Dunfee, 30, both Huntington area men, disappeared. They were last seen hunting from a canvas-type canoe.

Searchers since then have found the boat, a paddle, shotgun, man's cap and two lifejackets.

Explosives were set off near the mouth of Guyan Creek where it empties into the Ohio River. Authorities said they hoped the concussions would free the bodies if they are snagged on the river bottom.

Persons living downstream were asked to be on the lookout in case the bodies came to the surface as a result of the blasts.

Oakland Bank Pays Dividend

OAKLAND — First National Bank's board of directors has declared a 30-cent regular dividend and an additional 10-cent dividend on every share of stock, payable as of December 31.

This is the same amount that was paid last June, and the same as declared in December 1963. The dividend this December made the total for the year 80 cents per share. Checks will be mailed Friday to all stockholders of record.

Aid to department children, $269,147.50 with $186,537.78 from federal, $78,108.34 from state and $4,501.38 from county.

The total cost of administration was $82,692.65 with $26,393.85 coming from federal, $48,308.72 from state and $7,990.08 from county. This was broken down also to indicate that $72,4476.51 was expended on salaries with $10,216.14 for other expenses.

In the report there was included two paragraphs on a study conducted in Garrett County which stated:

"A study project to determine what services were needed to improve the employability of twenty-one fathers who were receiving AFDC from the county welfare board was completed during the year. This was directed by a State committee whose membership included employment placement and counselling specialists, a vocational rehabilitation counselor, a physician and a social worker. A local committee with similar representation (other than a physician) had responsibility for offering the services to this group of unemployed fathers. The results of the project are now being assessed.

"Under the Federal Public Welfare Amendments of 1962, the Department has continued the development of AFDC Services aimed at strengthening family life and self-support. Our efforts to fill the additional worker and supervisor positions authorized for this purpose continue."

Two W. Va. Men Confess Slaying Textile Exec.

ROME, Ga. (UPI) — Two West Virginia men who have conessed slaying textile executive Billy Copeland are scheduled to appear before a grand jury here on murder charges on Jan. 11.

The two men —Roy Dale Chatterton, 20, and Woodrow Whisman, 21, both of Huntington, W. Va. — are currently in the Chatham County jail on charges of robbery.

The men confessed to killing Copeland after the 47-year-old Barwick Mills executive picked them up in his automobile on Dec. 15. Copeland was en route here to pick up his son at Berry College at the time of his death.

Authorities here, acting on instructions from Savannah police who obtained the confessions, found Copeland's bound body in a deserted shack in a rural area.

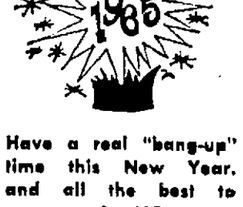

Copeland, of Lafayette, had been battered in the head with a heavy piece of wood and his coat and wrist watch were found on one of the suspects when they were arrested.

An autopsy report disclosed that Copeland died from the head injuries and indicated that he died within hours of the beating.

Whisman and Chatterton, two hep-talking youngsters who police said were hopped up on drugs when captured, also admitted to a two-week spree of crime and violence in West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Georgia.

Bobcats Belt Salisbury State In 77-65 Tilt

Coppin State Suffers 97-62 Loss, Play Resumes Today

Host team Frostburg and sizzling Bowie State advanced to the semi-finals of the first-annual Maryland Intercollegiate Conference basketball Tournament last night with easy victories.

Bowie belted Coppin State in the opening game by a 97-62 count, as Cattrell and Dixon pumped in 51 points between them. Dr. Ron Van Ryswk's home team Bobcats got a 24-point performance from three-year veteran Bill Wiltison as they dumped Salisbury State, 77-65.

Wiltison's points came on ten field goals and four for five at the foul line. Quincy Crawford had 16 and former Allegany star Jim Willis netted 10 for the winners. So Osinski led the losers with 16 markers, while Miles made 14 and Cannon boomed in ten.

The Bobcats, capitalizing on a 29-22 edge in field goals, led by 44-27 at halftime.

Bowie had even less trouble, as they out-field goaled Coppin, 43-20. Their 57-31 lead at intermission proved insurmountable.

Cattrell had 26 points, while Dixon had one less, Palmer garnered 13, and Smallwood caged 10. J. Bennett was high scorer for the losers with 22 points, while D. Edwards had an even dozen.

Bowie will meet Gallaudet in the first game of the semi-finals today at 5:30. Frostburg meets Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science at 7:30. Coppin meets Salisbury in a consolation round contest in tonights's 9:30 closeout.

Tulsa Mistakes Net Terps Win

Maryland Advances In Hurricane Classic

By KELSO STURGEON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Maryland took advantage of Tulsa mistakes in the closing minutes of play to beat the Golden Hurricanes 66-59 Monday night in the opening game of the Hurricane Basketball Classic.

Miami and Yale met in the nightcap with the winner scheduled to meet Maryland for the championship Tuesday night. The losers meet in a consolation game.

Even though Tulsa was trailing by four points with about seven minutes to go, the Golden Hurricanes were still very much in contention.

But they brought the ball down the court seven straight times without ever getting a shot at the basket and killed their own chances.

UPI's Top Five Retain Positions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Press International college basketball ratings underwent little change this week, with Michigan's Wolverines still leading the pack.

The Wolverines increased their number of first place votes by two with 23 while second-ranked Wichita again polled seven.

The top five teams remained the same with Minnesota third, San Francisco fourth and UCLA fifth.

The second half of the top 10 was shuffled slightly although the same schools were involved.

Indiana vaulted from eighth to sixth and Duke slipped a notch to seventh. Illinois was up a peg to eighth and St. Louis down two to ninth. Davidson again rounded out the first 10.

Duke was the only member of the nation's top 10 teams not scheduled for action in a tournament this week.

Michigan And Princeton Romp In Holiday Tests

Russell, Bradley Each Score 36 Points

NEW YORK (AP) — Cazzie Russell's 36 points led Michigan, the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, to a 90-77 romp over outmanned Manhattan Monday night in the first round of the Madison Square Garden Holiday Festival Tournament.

Michigan faces Princeton in Wednesday's semifinals.

The Tigers, led by the 36-point effort of All-America Bill Bradley, stood off Syracuse 79-69 and St. John's of New York beat LaSalle 78-71 in afternoon games.

Cincinnati played Temple in the final first round game.

The 6-foot-6 Russell hit 10 of 15 from the floor while his Michigan mates were having the jitters on their first appearance in Madison Square Garden. The Wolverines managed only a 45-39 halftime margin.

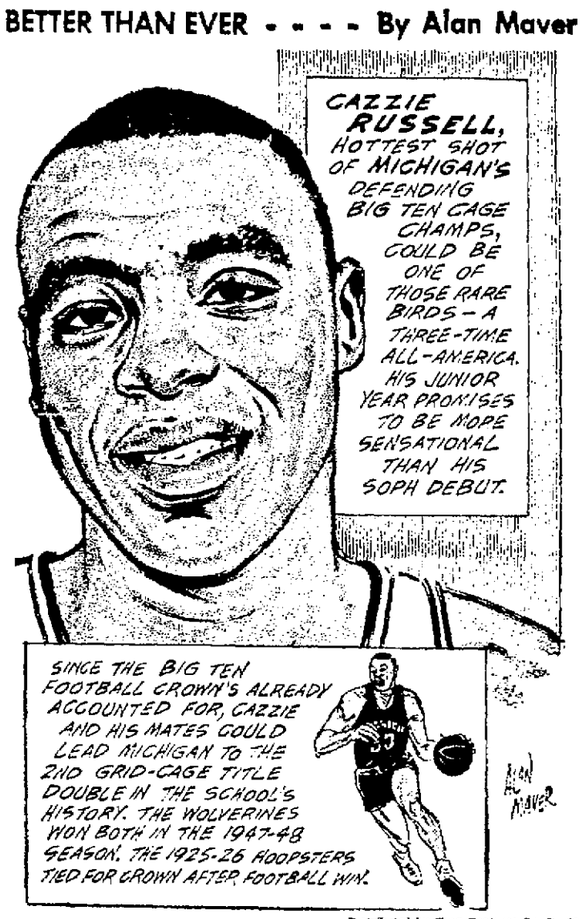

But Michigan outscored the Jaspers 17-2 in a few minutes midway in the final half for an unbeatable 84-60 lead. Russell contributed seven of the 17.

St. John's of New York, ignited by a couple of key plays by Jerry Houston, held off LaSalle 78-71 in the opener of the afternoon doubleheader and joined Princeton in Wednesday's semifinals.

The afternoon winners will play the winners of Monday night's twinbill, No. 1-ranked Michigan with Manhattan and Cincinnati vs. Temple.

LaSalle played the favored St. John's Redmen on even terms through the first half, trailing 31-29 at intermission. They tied it seven times in the second half, but never led in their frantic game of catch up.

Knickerbockers Lose 26th Game

BOSTON (UPI) — Player-coach Dave DeBusschere scored 20 points in the first half and then turned playmaker to guide the Detroit Pistons to a 123-117 victory over the New York Knicks in the first half of a NBA doubleheader here Monday night.

DeBusschere, who took over the coaching job two months ago, netted 23 points to share scoring honors with Terry Dischinger whom he set up on five fast-breaking baskets in the second half.

The Pistons secured the win, their second in five meetings with New York, with a late second quarter spurt. DeBusschere, who netted 15 points in the decisive second quarter, hit three baskets as Detroit broke from a 51-51 tie to a 70-58 intermission lead.

Wichita Moves Closer To Top

Michigan Still In First Place

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wichita's Shockers, who piled up 109 points in beating Pittsburgh for their sixth triumph, edged closer to top-ranked Michigan in The Associated Press' weekly college basketball poll Monday.

There was a relatively light shakeup in the rankings.

The first five teams remained unchanged. Michigan led, followed by Wichita, Minnesota, UCLA and San Francisco.

Illinois and Indiana each advanced one notch to sixth and seventh, respectively. Duke, idle last week, dropped to eighth place while St. Louis held ninth and St. Joseph's, Pa., climbed to 10th, replacing Davidson.

Michigan polled 23 first-place votes and 350 points in the balloting by a regional panel of 38 writers and broadcasters. Wichita, which trailed the Wolverines by 70 points a week ago, collected 322 points this week including six first-place votes.

The voting was based on games through Saturday and points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second etc.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points:

1. Michigan (23)	350
2. Wichita (6)	322
3. Minnesota (6)	249
4. UCLA	216
5. San Francisco (1)	167
6. Illinois (1)	160
7. Indiana (1)	153
8. Duke	125
9. St. Louis	89
10. St. Joseph's	83

Gophers Edge Huskies, 77-76

Iowa Tops Trojans In L.A. Classic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Third-ranked Minnesota withstood a comeback by the underdog University of Washington in the second half Monday and won a 77-76 victory in the Los Angeles Basketball Classic.

In the first game, Iowa defeated Southern California 71-65.

In night games, Michigan State met Utah and the University of Arizona played UCLA.

Early in the second half Minnesota built up a 17-point lead against the Huskies, then lost its scoring touch. While Washington was rallying, the undefeated Gophers went 10 minutes and 44 seconds without scoring a field goal.

With the score at 71-70, Archie Clark drove in for a layup to give Minnesota breathing room. Lou Hudson connected on a short jumper to boost the Gophers' lead to five points with less than three minutes to play.

8 Nominated For Grid Coach Of The Year

Parseghian, Bryant Are In Running

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Eight men, including Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama and Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame, Monday were nominated for the 1964 major college Coach-of-the-Year award by the American Football Coaches Association.

The coaches association and Eastman Kodak Company are co-sponsors of the annual award.

More than 800 coaches from 250 colleges participated in the voting, which selected one coach from each of eight regions.

Completing the list of nominees were Harold Lahar of Colgate, who's team recorded its best record in 30 years (7-2); Richard Colman of unbeaten Princeton; William Tate, who guided Wake Forest to five victories in his first year as head coach after the Deacons had won only one game the two previous seasons; Robert Devaney of Big Eight champion Nebraska; Frank Broyles of unbeaten Arkansas, and Oregon State's Tommy Prothro, the winningest coach in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Bryant directed Alabama to the 1964 national championship with a 10-0 record. He was the Kodak Coach-of-the Year in 1961, when 'Bama posted a perfect mark.

Parseghian, in his first year at Notre Dame, snapped the Irish out of a long period of football doldrums with a 9-1 record, losing only to Southern California in the finale.

The award winning will be chosen at the AFCA annual convention at Chicago, Jan. 10-13.

Illinois Dumped By St. Joseph's

Hawks Extend Win Streak To 9 Games

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unbeaten St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia, a newcomer this week to the nation's Top Ten basketball powers, upset Illinois 75-71 Monday night to advance to the final round of the fourth annual Quaker City Basketball Tournament at Penn's Palestra.

The 10th-ranked Hawks blew a 16-point lead but stormed back in the final five minutes to record their ninth victory of the season.

Unbeaten Villanova met Wichita, the nation's second ranked team, in the second game of the doubleheader.

St. Joseph's led 51-37 at halftime, but the Big Ten team, with spurts of 8-0 and 10-0, tied the score at 61 on a drive by 6-foot-8 Skip Thoren with 10:59 to play.

Bill McKeown and Thoren converted free throws to give Illinois a 63-61 lead.

The score was tied three times before Thoren pivoted to give Illinois the edge at 69-67. But St. Joseph's Cliff Anderson scored on a drive from the corner and Tom Duff dumped one in after a scramble under the basket with 4:18 remaining to give the Hawks a lead they never lost.

Hawks Fire Harry Gallatin, Richie Guerin Named Coach

St. Louis Hires Ninth Cage Coach In Last 9½ Seasons

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Harry Gallatin, coach of the National Basketball Association St. Louis Hawks, was fired Monday but said: "I'll still be cheering for the Hawks."

Club owner Ben Kerner announced Gallatin's dismissal and named Richie Guerin, Hawk guard, to succeed Gallatin. Kerner said Guerin, a nine-year NBA veteran, would take over the team immediately.

Kerner said he had decided not to renew Gallatin's contract for next season and he felt "it would be in the best interests of both he (Gallatin) and the Hawks to relieve him of his coaching duties at the present time."

Gallatin, who was NBA Coach of the Year in 1962-63, led the Hawks to two second place finishes in two seasons.

St. Louis is now second in the Western Division of the NBA with a 17-16 record, 3½ games behind the Los Angeles Lakers.

Gallatin's record with the Hawks was 111 games won and 82 games lost.

Guerin becomes the ninth coach in 9½ seasons for the St. Louis Hawks. They were: Red Holzman, Slater Martin, Alex Hannum, Andy Phillip, Ed Macauley, Paul Seymor, Fuzzy Levane, Gallatin and now Guerin.

Kerner said Gallatin would continue to be paid until his contract expires May 1, 1965. Gallatin made an estimated $20,000 a year as coach of the NBA team.

Guerin will handle the Hawks for the rest of the season, Kerner said.

Bench Strength, Quickness Give NFL Edge Over Rival

AFL 'Kids' Seen Growing Up Fast, Bent On Maturity

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — A banner at Buffalo last Saturday flaunted the challenge, "Bring on the Colts."

And maybe on one of their best days those idols of the Buffalo citizenry — the bone-crushing Bills who won the American Football League championship — might indeed give the Baltimore Colts of the old-line National League a pretty fair tussle.

But the Colts are only second best in their league, as the Cleveland Browns proved beyond question with a 27-0 thrashing on Sunday.

After a back-to-back look last weekend at the two best teams in the five-year-old AFL and the two best in the 45-year-old NFL it's obvious the junior league has some more building to do before it can challenge for a baseball-style world Series.

Better Bench

The difference may be subtle and it's closing rapidly but there is a difference. There's a bench strength in the old league the AFL can't match. There's a quickness, even in the biggest men, that's almost a trademark in the NFL.

How long it'll be before the AFL closes the gap is anyone's guess. The "kids" are growing up fast and with the future assured by a fabulous television contract for the next five years, the AFL is hell-bent for maturity.

There are many stars in the AFL that could play anywhere. There are entire teams that might play in the NFL without being disgraced.

Those Buffalo bruisers mean business when they come to play. They'll hit as hard as any of 'em. Cookie Gilchrist, who weighs in at 251, and Wray Carlton, 225, are blasting ballotters. Linebacker Mike Stratton hit San Diego's Keith Lincoln so hard on one tackle Saturday he cracked one of Lincoln's ribs — and Keith is an offensive star in his own right.

The quarterbacking and the pass receiving in the AFL game was below the standards in the NFL playoff but it must be conceded by even the most rabid NFL partisan that Baltimore's pass defense against Cleveland's Frank Ryan frequently was pathetic as Ryan switched from his favorite receiver, Paul Warfield, to Gary Collins for three touchdowns.

No Unitas Yet

Tobin Rote of San Diego, a 36-year-old former National Leaguer, and Buffalo's Jack Kemp had several passes dropped by receivers but neither operated with the sure-handedness of Ryan or even Baltimore's Johnny Unitas.

The AFL's future depends on how well it can develop the new talent that's coming its way in the college draft. The new league is getting fewer players than the old league but has to split them only eight ways. The NFL has 14 teams to stock and that takes plenty of beef.

Efforts to merge the two leagues to prevent a further price war for talent are likely to fail if it means the AFL has to give up the New York Jets, leaving the Giants with the only team in town.

With all that TV loot coming up, the AFL is in a good spot to stay in business on its own. That, in only a short time, could force a common college draft and a two-league title game for a true world professional football championship.

There was a time, so history tells us, when baseball's National League refused to play those upstate Americans in a World Series.

The final product now brings joy—and sometimes despair — to millions.

A's Will Stay In Kanssa City At Least 3 Years

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The long-simmering feud between Charles O. Finley and city officials over a stadium lease for the Kansas City Athletics ended Monday in smiles, handshakes and a promise by Finley to keep the American League club here for at least three more years.

As a result of a two-hour closed session among Finley, Mayor Ilus Davis and city councilmen, city officials promised to try for a goal of 5,000 season ticket sales. Last season the club sold only 2,019 before the season opened.

Finley, who threatened and tried unsuccessfully to move the club, filed suit against the city last May. He wanted reinstatement of a clause in the lease which would permit him to move the club if the annual attendance fell below 850,000.

It was dismissed in Jackson County Circuit Court Dec. 9, but the next day Finley's attorneys filed motions for a new trial and to set aside the judicial order dismissing the case.

There things stood until Sunday night, when Finley announced on a radio panel show that he was dropping the suit and added he planned to stay in Kansas City for the remaining three years of his lease.

Woman Named Top Russian Athlete

MOSCOW (AP) — For the first time in history Soviet sports writers Monday chose a woman as the Soviet athlete of the year.

Lidia Skoblikova, woman world speed skating champion and winner of four gold medals at the Innsbruck Winter Olympics, headed the list of top Soviet athletes chosen by news, radio and television men.

Cage Tourney Starts Tonight At Petersburg

LaSalle Plays At Warfordsburg

Four Potomac Valley Conference teams will begin play in the fourth-annual Holiday Basketball Tournament at Petersburg this evening, with host Petersburg facing Circleville at 7 p. m. and Moorefield taking on Franklin at 9 p. m.

Petersburg takes a 2-1 record into the tourney, while Moorefield has a perfect 3-0 log, Franklin is 1-4, and winless Circleville has lost seven times. Franklin won the championship last year, Moorefield the previous year, and Petersburg won the initial tourney.

Consolation finals (7 p. m.) and championship finals (9 p. m.) are set for Wednesday.

Meanwhile, LaSalle of Cumberland will meet St. Thomas (Pa.) at 6:45 this evening in the opening game of the Warfordsburg, Pa., Holiday Tournament. Southern Fulton and Musselman meet in the nightcap at nine o'clock.

Likewise, the Warfordsburg classic winds up Wednesday with the consolation game starting at 6:45 and the championship clash at nine.

Locally, Allegany, Fort Hill and Valley will be hosting their alumni quints, while Oldtown will visit Campobello to tackle Allegany's junior varsity.

Insurance For Travelers Is 100 Years Old

NEW YORK (UPI) — "For two cents I'd . . ."

History is vague about the origin of that expression but, somehow, Americans seem willing to accept that price as the precise minimum to make any gamble worth while.

The expression may have been coined exactly 100 years ago, when one James Goodwin Batterson, of Hartford, Conn., accepted two copper coins as the price for insuring the life of one James Bolton for $1,000 while Bolton strolled home for lunch.

The premium which Batterson collected is credited with being the initial revenue of what is now The Travelers Insurance Companies, one of the nation's largest all-line insurers.

The nature of insurance for travelers has changed drastically in its first 100 years. For the first three decades the principal vehicle injury claims came from bicyclists but, in 1896, the automobile entered the picture when The Travelers wrote a policy on Gilbert J. Loomis of Westfield, Mass., who had built his own one-cylinder car. Loomis turned in his license in 1956 at the age of 85, having had only one minor accident in 59 years.

The first automobile fatality claim was paid in 1900 after Hieronymus Mueller of Decatur, Ill., set his clothes ablaze while filling the fuel tank of his car.

Santa Fe Discourages Modern Buildings

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—Folks in Santa Fe just don't like new fangled architecture and bright lights. In fact, they have passed laws to prove it.

An ordinance, unique in the nation, was passed in 1953, setting up rigid building codes around the 250-year-old plaza of Santa Fe. For a dozen blocks, north and south of the plaza, only three building styles may be used—Pueblo, Spanish and so-called territorial.

In and out of courts since it was first written, the ordinance has caused contractors finally to toss in their trowels. Even the design of a new state Capitol building for New Mexico had to be altered when it was found to be within the historic zone.

Also in the law is a strict code against store signs: "No sign shall flash, blink, revolve or seem to be in motion," the ordinance reads. Billboards within the zone, meanwhile, are as popular as a mad dog at a Sunday school picnic.

The ordinance, fostered by the historic-minded art colony and tourist-minded businessmen within the city, discourages most modern-minded builders before they get started.

The legal building material is stucco, styled to resemble the old adobe or sun-dried mud sides of Indian pueblos. The simulated adobe must cover 80 per cent of the building.

Pueblo style architecture, by far the most popular, is patterned after the Indian villages in the area. Smooth sided, flat roofed, studded with massive log roof supports, some of the city's largest buildings are patterned after the pueblos.

Territorial style architecture puts a row of bricks along the top edges of the buildings' walls. This brick frieze is believed to have been introduced by early American immigrants to New Mexico. The bricks were to keep rains from washing away the adobe walls.

Spanish style features the red tiled roof, deep windows and iron grill work found more often in California-Spanish architecture. In Santa Fe, popularity of the Spanish style has dwindled in the past two decades.

With all three styles, roofs must be flat. Skylights, air conditioning devices, flues and television aerials are okay, provided they are hidden from view.

The sign section of the ordinance, by far the most controversial, permits a shingle and that's about it. The tiny number of bright lights within the historic zone were there before 1953.

"Signs bearing the customary name of the business may be placed on walls of buildings facing on public streets," the ordinance reads. But the signs can't be more than 18 inches high. Other restrictions make the modern neon sign of large proportions almost extinct in the zone.

Behind the ordinance is a years-old move to keep Santa Fe as it was years ago. As one councilman said: "That's one reason why tourists come here. Besides that, it's kinda nice and restful."

W. Va. SRC Opens Bridge Bids Today

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Road Commission opens bids this morning on two bridge projects in Ritchie and Kanawha Counties, expected to cost $500,000, and another portion of Interstate 70 Roadway near Triadelphia.

The bridge projects include a span to carry U. S. 50 over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks near Pennsboro, Ritchie County, and two overpass structures for Interstate 64, one near Institute in Kanawha County and another at Nitro in adjoining Putnam County.

The I-70 project calls for construction of one-half mile of the expressway.

Army Now Has Sky-Diving Veterinarian

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—The Army now has a "sky diving" animal doctor.

Col. Clinton L. Gould, the post veterinarian, recently completed the rigorous airborne parachute jumper's course at the Infantry School.

Gould, who is 50 while most aspiring parachutists are in their 20s, said: "I did it because today's Army is air mobility conscious."

He said there are two reasons for jumping veterinarians.

A vet, he said, may be asked to fly to an isolated area to diagnose an outbreak of disease among animals that threatens the population in peace time.

Special Forces could use a veterinarian during combat to deal with the animal and human health problems in agricultural countries that have many domesticated animals, he said.

The health of these animals would affect the health of the local population and native troops, he said. This could affect the welfare of United States soldiers.

Gould, of Hydesville, Calif., has been in the Army since 1941. He inspects all food that enters Ft. Benning. He also inspects the firms that supply the food.

He also is responsible for the health of pets of military personnel and for 30 canine members of the 26th infantry Scout Dog Platoon.

And when a dog is under consideration for purchase by the platoon, Gould gives the pup his "pre-induction" physical.

More Dockers Return To Jobs After Walkouts

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — More longshoremen went back to work Monday than had appeared for several days in ports at Houston and Galveston, but there were still some shortages of work gangs needed to load and unload ships.

Undersecretary of Labor James J. Reynolds planned to meet Tuesday with union and management in a joint session to try to iron out the strike threat that could spread from the West Gulf district to Atlantic ports.

Galveston shippers said Monday they got just about the work gangs they asked for to load ships in port. At Houston, however, the percentage of longshoremen available for requested work ranged from around two-thirds to 100 per cent.

The holidays and some longshoremen's dissatisfaction with the drift of contract talks caused much absenteeism just before Christmas and through the past weekend. Last week, some shippers said only one fifth of the work gangs they requested showed up. No night work was done.

Monday, the public wharves at Galveston said virtually all longshoremen needed to work ships were available. Shippers said they had full response to their requests for workers.

When the Taft-Hartley cooling-off period ended Dec. 20, Reynolds was ordered by President Johnson into the situation so that he could try to get shippers and longshoremen together. He met with both sides last week, then returned to Washington to report.

He said the International Longshoremen's Association locals had pledged to try to keep operations normal while negotiations continued.

New York workers came under a new agreement that gives them 86 cents in wage raises over four years of contract. There were some wildcat walkouts in New York, but longshoremen gradually resumed operations.

However, longshoremen in the west Gulf considered their Atlantic brothers honor-bound to follow them in a strike over a Gulf contract.

Stockholders Of Closed Plant Confer Today

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UPI) —Stockholders of National Seating and Dimension Inc., which closed its plant at nearby Varney last month will meet today to discuss possible courses of action.

State Commerce Department officials have been trying to locate another company to take over the plant and save about 100 jobs, but said no final agreement can be reached until certain decisions are made by National Seating stockholders.

A department spokesman said the firm's principal creditors, the Area Redevelopment Administration, Small Business Administration and State Industrial Development Authority, have agreed to delay foreclosure on their loans to forestall bankruptcy proceedings.

Management blamed labor difficulties for closing the plant but United Mine Workers District 50 officials denied this.

TV CAMEOS: Frank DeFelitta

A Show That Was Haunted From the Start

By ED MISURELL

FICTIONAL ghost stories and real ghosts have fascinated mankind for centuries.

Oh, so you're a skeptic—you don't believe in ghosts, eh?

Well, you may be in for a couple of surprises if you tune in some weeks hence when NBC-TV presents its spirit-hunt telecast, "The Stately Ghosts of England."

"From the moment we began to shoot the show," said its producer-writer-director Frank DeFelitta, "we ran into many eerie happenings which I can't find any explanation for to this very day. Cameras broke down. Some of our color film developed by dependable laboratories came out in dark green tones despite the fact that our cameramen were top-flight and so was their metering equipment.

• • •

"CREW members were involved in car accidents. Lights blew up, and automatic equipment left on at night had been switched off in the morning even though no one was near it in the intervening hours.

"Particularly odd," continued DeFelitta as he leaned on his desk in his New York office, "was what happened when we wanted to film a clock striking twelve—the witching hour—in one of the big halls in one of the mansions. We had our cameras ready and waiting—and every clock in the house struck twelve except the one we were trying to shoot.

"It's true you might say the pendulum jammed. So did we. But it's also pretty weird, isn't it?"

• • •

THE stockily built producer pointed out that in doing the show, he didn't take a position either way on the existence or non-existence of ghosts. "What we did do is to have the people who claimed to have seen manifestations tell about them on the spot where these appearances occurred. These people are good people and take the subject of their ghosts very seriously. After spending a month with them in their stately homes at Longleat, Salisbury Hall and Beaulieu, I have to believe them."

Even the idea for doing the show came about in an odd fashion, DeFelitta pointed out. "I had ducked into a bookstore one night to get out of the rain and spotted the title; 'The Stately Ghosts of England,' on a shelf near me. The book detailed the experiences of Tom Corbett, a well known British clairvoyant and financial adviser to prominent people.

"When I saw the price—$6.95—I was about to put it down. But after flipping through it, I bought it. I read it that night and found it intriguing. Shortly after, I saw a movie starring Margaret Rutherford, the great English actress, and thought if I could tie them together some way it would make a good TV show."

DeFelitta presented his idea to Julian Goodman, his boss at NBC, and was given an O.K. to go ahead. "One of the toughest parts of the job was getting to see Miss Rutherford," said the producer. "When I went to England, she was working on a picture and was shielded by people to keep guys like me away from her.

"I bought ten dozen roses which cost $100 and sent them to her dressing room with a note. She invited me in to thank me. When I told her about my idea to do a show on ghosts with her in it, she said she didn't have the time. In addition, she said she believed in ghosts and didn't want to offend them."

After DeFelitta convinced her that he intended treating the subject seriously, the actress finally consented. "At the three mansions, all hundreds of years old," he said, "Miss Rutherford is on hand to brief the audience on the legends and historial traditions which form the basis of the hauntings."

Looking back on the mishaps that occurred before he wrapped up the program—and the thoughts of a $150,000 show going down the drain—DeFelitta smiled quickly and said, "Now that it's over, most of my worries were unnecessary. After all, Tom Corbett told me that the ghosts liked what we were doing and that everything would turn out all right.

"Do I believe in ghosts?" he asked, still smiling. "Well, I'll leave it up to you to judge for yourself."

'Torch Burglar' Sentenced To Up To 60 Years

Detainers Pending In Other States

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI)—Rex W. Albright, 43, of Elkins, dubbed the "Torch Burglar" by police entered pleas of guilty to four charges of burglary here Monday and was sentenced to 4-to-60 years in prison.

Randolph County Circuit Judge Stanley S. Bosworth, while telling Albright he is a "great believer in probation," said it was not called for in this case.

The judge noted that Albright, a railroad worker, stands accused of 27 other crimes of theft in Pennsylvania, 64 in the Fairmont area and others in Maryland and Virginia.

Albright was ordered to serve 1-to-15 years on each of the four counts, with sentences to run consecutively. The minimum time would be four years and the maximum 60.

Time was allowed for the period he spent in jail since his arrest last Aug. 8 in Uniontown, Pa. He was arrested that night at a roadblock following breakins at a home and a garage.

In Elkins, the most serious charge against Albright was the theft of $775 from the trousers of the sleeping owner after entering a second-floor window. He was also accused of taking $300 from the purse of a sleeping woman in her bedroom.

Police called him the "Torch Burglar" because he cut his way through screens and windows with a small cutting torch.

Albright's crime spree began about five years ago. He would tell his wife and two children he was going on weekend fishing trips, but visited other cities for purposes of burglarizing homes.

Detainers Pending

Before Albright was led from the nearly - empty courtroom, Judge Bosworth reminded him that detainers were still pending against him from other states.

"However, I don't know whether they will be pressed," he said. "That will depend on whether they are satisfied that you have received sufficient punishment."

Albright was accompanied by an attorney when he was brought before the judge following his transfer here from Uniontown. He was to be sent to Moundsville Penitentiary Thursday.

Got In Wrong Envelope

Israel Kallus, a 14-year-old first-year student at Ner Israel Rabbinical College in Baltimore, scratches his head in bewilderment yesterday after receiving a $10,000 treasury note in the mail from the Garrett National Bank in Oakland. Young Kallus had written to the bank asking about its checking accounts. He got the information—and with it the $10,000 note. A bank employe apparently put the note, destined for the Federal Reserve Bank in Richmond, Va., in the wrong envelope. (AP Photofax)

Dr. Haines To Represent Governor At Cotton Bowl

Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, will represent Governor J. Millard Tawes at the Cotton Bowl event New Year's which will be attended by the high school band and drill team.

The principal will present to Texas Governor John Connally a Bowie knife, a gift from Governor Tawes who said it is fashioned after one designed by the Texas hero, James Bowie, who was killed in the massacre at The Alamo in 1836.

The knife manufactured in Tawes' hometown, Crisfield, is being presented on behalf of the residents of Maryland as a token "of our respect and affection for the people of Texas."

Govenor Tawes remarked he is delighted the band has been selected to visit Dallas and is certain the group "will bring honor and glory to our state."

The Maryland governor expressed hope that those from Cumberland who make the trip will have a pleasant and interesting time.

Local Surgeon Cites Interest In Auto Safety

Dr. A. J. Mirkin, local surgeon, has become extremely interested in automotive safety in recent years and this has prompted him to participate in several significant conferences in the past several months.

He developed an interest in sports cars and racing as a hobby in 1949 and as a resut of the hobby has become interested in automotive safety. He is serving on the medical safety committee of the Sports Car Club of America and is chairman of the committee on medical aspects of automotive safety of the American Medical Association. He also is past president and chairman of the membership committee of the American Association for Automotive Medicine. The last-named group held its eighth annual meeting in Louisville, Ky., on October 26 and 27.

For the past 18 months, Dr. Mirkin has served as a member of the sub-committee on health, medical care and transportation of the injured to the President's Committee on Traffic Safety. About two months ago this committee completed a report which was presented to President Lyndon B. Johnson. It attempts to set up standards for licensing and training of ambulance attendants and drivers, ambulance design and construction standards and emergency room and receiving ward standards of hospitals of various sizes throughout the country. If accepted, it would become one of the action program's of the President's committee.

On November 16, 17 and 18, the first National Conference on Medical Aspects of Driver Safety and Driver Licensing was held in Chicago. This was co-sponsored by the American Medical Association, the United States Public Health Service and the American Association of Motor Vehicles Administrators.

Dr. Mirkin was one of five keynote speakers on the morning of November 16. He gave a paper on "Medical Factors Related to Driving Ability."

In a recent letter to the Cornell University Alumni Association, Dr. Mirkin noted that his hobby is almost a "full time job."

"It is exciting, compelling and totally frustrating," Dr. Mirkin wrote. "However, for the first time a glimmer of hope appears on the horizon. We may be able to do something about some of the people who have physical, emotional or other impairments of driving ability. If we can identify them, correct them, rehabilitate them or restrict their licensing we may be able to reduce mortality on the highways by five to 10 per cent and injuries by an even larger percentage.

Dr. Mirkin received his A. B. degree from Cornell in 1931.

Area Parley Is Planned By Municipal Unit

The Western Region of the Maryland League is expected to hold a meeting in this area early in January.

Plans for the legislative conference are being arranged by Mayor Earl D. Chaney, regional vice president of the League.

Tentative plans for the meeting were explained in letters sent recently to the Senators and Delegations to the General Assembly from Garrett and Allegany County, and to mayors of Kitzmiller, Midland, Friendsville, Lonaconing, Luke, Barton, Frostburg, Grantsville, Deer Park, Accident and Westernport.

Mayor Chaney explained that officials of the Municipal League have asked that a dinner meeting be scheduled in Western Maryland so municipal officials could discuss with legislators any proposed laws desired in the 1965 General Assembly.

He explained that laws affecting municipalities will be statewide and that widespread support from the cities and towns will be needed before the Legislature will act.

Considerable interest has been shown by the municipalities and many legislators have indicated intentions of attending the meeting.

Many municipalities, including the City of Cumberland, have already taken formal action to adopt a six-point legislative program being advocated by the League.

A similar Western Maryland legislative dinner meeting was held last year at the Clary Club and was well attended.

Need For Air Flights Seems Limited Here

Preliminary results of a survey to determine the need of Cumberland area industrial and businesses for scheduled air flights fail to show an overwhelming need for the service.

The survey is being made by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce at the request of a firm which is interested in starting regular air service from Cumberland to Pittsburgh and to Washington-Baltimore.

Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber, yesterday said 54 returns, which include all major industries, have been received and that 32 of the firms said they would use air service some time during the month if it were available.

The survey to date shows that a typical month, the firms would be interested in 96 flights to Pittsburgh, the same number to Washington and 52 to Baltimore.

Seventeen of the companies indicated they would use air freight if such service were available.

Assuming that service would be provided Monday through Friday, this would mean an average of five passengers a day to Pittsburgh, the same number to Washington and two to Baltimore.

Replies have not been received from all of the area businesses which would make occasional use of air flights.

Mr. Petersen said the survey also does not include any estimate of the number of individuals who would welcome plane service if it were available at convenient times and at reasonable cost.

Scheduled air service has been sought by the Chamber since Allegheny Airlines halted flights here in February 1959, although Montgomery Air Service supplied temporary service for a few weeks prior to January 1960.

Mr. Petersen said the Chamber knows from experience that when industrial prospects consider Cumberland, air service is one of the things lacking. He said that even though a firm may not need air service in it operation it will probably want such service available, as it is in so many communities which are seeking to expand their industrial base.

$129 Million Value Placed On Crops

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland's 1964 crop output has been valued at $129.1 million, up 4 per cent over last year, by the Maryland - Delaware Crop Reporting Service.

Creighton N. Guellow, agricultural statistician in charge, said increases in the production of corn and tobacco overcame declines for most other crops.

Despite a severe summer drought, corn production of more than 27.2 million bushels set a record. Early July rains which ended a two - month dry spell were credited with saving the crop. The value of the corn was placed at more than $35.3 million, highest since 1951.

Tobacco production totaled 39 million pounds, an increase of per cent over 1963.

Soybean output was cut sharply by the drought and dropped to 4.1 million bushels, the smallest productions since 1957. The crop was valued at $10.8 million, a drop of 9 per cent as compared with last year.

"Rainfall in August, the critical month for moisture in soybeans field," Guellow said, "was only about 40 per cent of normal."

The dry spell also reduced hay production to 609,000 tons, a drop of 20 per cent below average.

The crop service said wheat and barley crops planted in the fall of 1963 and harvested last spring were favored with good weather for maturity and harvest.

Wheat production was up 6 per cent, but the value was down 18 per cent because of lower prices. Barley was up 25 per cent in output, and 15 per cent in value.

The combined value of vegetables and melons produced in 1964 reached almost $14.7 million, compared with close to $14.9 in 1963.

Assembly Urged To Boost Work Of Committee

BALTIMORE (AP) — A member of the House of Delegates proposed Monday that the permanent General Assembly committee function all year to supplement the work of the Legislative Council.

Del. John W. Hardwick, R-Harford, said the full potential of the committees is not realized.

The council has recently been under fire after reports that council members were paid $35 for each council committee meeting they attended each day. The multiple payments have been challenged by two court suits.

The General Assembly permanent committees often handle the same subjects as the council committees, but meet separately.

Hardwicke contended that the Legislative Council, interim arm of the General Assembly, could be reduced in size if much of its work was done by the permanent committees.

The delegate said he didn't know how much the permanent, year-round system would cost, but commented, "It's bound to be less expensive than the present system."

Traffic Study Report Will Be Prepared

Council Briefed On Scope Of Work

The area representative of a consulting engineering firm yesterday morning briefed the Mayor and Council on the scope, mechanics and estimated cost of a traffic study and promised to expedite the preparation of a formal report and proposal.

Charles O. Pratt, Baltimore representative of Wilbur Smith and Associates, New Haven, Conn., told city officials he would forward a resume of yesterday's post-council meeting, along with details of his firm's proposal and estimated cost for a preliminary survey, and then ask the Mayor and Council if it wants the study made.

He said the proposal will be prepared as soon as possible.

At the opening of the session in the office Mayor Earl D. Chaney, Hugh A. McMullen, city attorney, explained that he had asked Mr. Pratt to appear and explain in detail what is involved in a traffic study, its estimated cost and its scope of operation.

Outlines Plan

Mr. Pratt informed the group that his firm would conduct the study in two phases, the first being a reconnaisance or pilot study which would be the basis for a further study which would include recommendations for a long-range program.

In response to questions as to cost of the survey, Mr. Pratt estimated the first portion could be accomplished for somewhere around $2,500, and that the first phase report would carry an estimate for the second and more complete phase of the work.

Mr. Pratt said his firm would have several men in the city to collect and correlate all information from past traffic studies, to study traffic patterns and peak periods, and then assemble this into a report with recommendations. The first phase of the study would require about six to eight weeks to complete, he added.

The Smith Associates representative stressed that his firm's analysis of Cumberland traffic would take into consideration the anticipated impact of the Cumberland Thruway on existing conditions, pointing out that home-to-work patterns and peaks are major portions of traffic studies.

To Set Guidelines

Queried by Mayor Chaney as to whether any study should be undertaken before or after completion of the overhead span of the Cumberland Thruway, Mr. Pratt said it was his opinion that much could be gained by making a study prior to completion.

Checking Account Query Brings Facts, $10,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 14-year-old boy with a yen for thrift found himself $10,000 richer Monday —at least for a few minutes.

Israel Kallus, a first year student at Ner Israel Rabbinical College here, opened at letter from Garrett National Bank in Oakland, Md., expecting to find information about a checking account that he had requested.

Instead, he found a treasury bill worth $10,000.

He took it immediately to Rabbi Hillel Sittner, a professor at the school, who in turn called the bank.

Nordeck Shaffer, assistant cashier at the bank which is nestled deep in the mountains of Western Maryland, said someone at the bank apparently had stuffed the treasury note into the envelope addressed to Kallus by mistake.

He said the note was destined for the Federal Reserve Bank in Richmond, Va. He said it was a short-term government note, not currency, but that it could have been cashed "without much difficulty" at any bank — if the bearer were known.

Kallus of Forest Hills, Queens, New York, said he had written the bank two weeks ago requesting information on opening a checking account because he had heard the charges at the bank were lower than most.

Does he still want to open an account?

"Indeed I do," he said.

City Building Permits Reach $3,601,845

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland during 1964 totaled $3,601,845.

This is a considerable drop from last year, when permits totaled $5,391,405 but represents about the same amount of general construction, since the 1963 permits included the $1,767,000 Washington Junior High School being built in South Cumberland.

December has been a slow building month, as was expected, and only three permits with a total value of $10,300 were issued. They included a residence with basement garage estimated to cost $10,000, a residential garage at $200 and a $100 addition to a residence.

The 1964 permits include 146 for new construction valued at $3,103,010, 64 additions and improvements estimated to cost $495,835 and a $3,000 permit to move a building.

Last year only 138 permits for new construction were issued and they had a value of $3,266,565. There were 66 permits for additions and improvements valued at $2,124,840 for a grand total of $5,391,405.

Fewer Building Permits Issued

A tapering off of building permit activity in the unincorporated portions of Allegany County is becoming apparent this month as only eight permits for construction estimated by the builders to cost $73,200 were issued by the County Planning and Zoning Departments in the first 11 days of the month.

Five of the eight early December permits were for new dwellings. The other projects included a hay shed, a meat processing shed and improvements to an existing dwelling.

All but $1,700 of the total cost of the early December construction was involved in the five permits for new dwellings. Three of the eight permits were for construction in Election District 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings. Each of the other permits was for a different election district. There was one each for District 2, Oldtown; District 5, North End suburban; 6, West Side suburban; 19, Shaft, and 29, LaVale.

The permits and zoning certificates were issued by County Engineer Albert S. Paye in his capacity as acting director of planning and zoning.
